

The Tribune.

VOL. I.

DESERONTO, ONT., THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1884.

NO. 46

THE TRIBUNE,

Published every Thursday Morning.

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO. (LIMITED),
Publishers and Proprietors.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—One copy, 50c per year;
50 cents per six months. Strictly in advance.

ADVERTISING.—Every chearfully made known on apply. Possible contract rates for large or continued advertising.

All communications should be addressed to

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO. (LIMITED),
Deseronto, Ont.

PUBLIC DIRECTORY.

COAL.

FOR HOUSE USE OR BLACKSMITH SHOPS, AT lowest market rates. Write for prices.
THE RATHBUN CO.

SALT.

BY CAR LOAD, PORTLAND CEMENT, OR IN BULK, AMERIcan or Canadian, at lowest market rates. Write for prices.

THE RATHBUN CO.

LAND PLASTER.

WATER LINE, PORTLAND CEMENT, AND DRY
Plaster Paris for sale, cheap, and full directions given how to use successfully. Write for prices.

THE RATHBUN CO.

NOTICE.

INSURANCE ON FARM OR VILLAGE PROPERTY
at low rates in Standard Stock Companies—the Royal Insurance Company and Commercial of England, Western, and British American of Toronto.

THE RATHBUN CO.

Agents.

KINDLING WOOD.

FARMERS TAKE ONE CUBIC FOOT SOFT WOOD to Deseronto Mills and exchange for two cubes of Firewood done up in bundles. They will make the morning fires quickly.

ALEX. MCGAUGHEY, Agent.

THE DESERONTO HOUSE.

THE HOUSE HAVING RECENTLY HAD MANY improvements is now in excellent condition and attracts public patronage. Terms moderate. Convenient Sault Rooms for the comfort of travellers.
First-class Bar and Laundry in connection.

R. C. CARTER, Prop'ty.

Deseronto, Ont.

O'CONNOR HOUSE.

THIS HOTEL IS ELEGANTLY FURNISHED
throughout, in the latest style. Large and convenient rooms, all comfortable accommodation and quiet for guests. The Bar is supplied with the best imported and domestic Liquors and Cigars.
Charges moderate. First-class Laundry and Washroom. Good and Shaded Seats.

F. O'CONNOR, Prop'ty.

Deseronto, Ont.

The Windsor Hotel,

PRINCES AND MONTEAL STS., KINGSTON,
Ontario, Canada. First-class in every respect.
J. R. Smith, Quiet Clerk.

MARTIN O'BRIEN, Proprietor.

MARRIAGE LICENCES.

T. G. FILE, ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENCES,
Deseronto, Ontario.

J. ROBINSON,

PAINTER, GLAZIER, HANGER & GHAIR in all its branches. One of the leading and Color in all its branches. Will execute all orders in our line, great or small, promptly, efficiently and cheaply. No time lost in completion. Orders should be sent to: T. G. File, Deseronto Office.

25-26

House and Lot for Sale.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE, ON easy and favorable terms, a fine new House and Lot in the village of Deseronto, in the North side of Thomas St. For further particulars apply to
R. B. R. Deseronto.

30-2

HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE, ON reasonable terms, a good House and Lot in the village of Deseronto, in the North side of Thomas St. For further particulars apply to
R. B. R. Deseronto.

30-2

JAMES R. BOOTH,

BUILDER AND CONTRACTOR, IS READY TO
attend all orders in Mason work, Brick work, Stone work, and all kinds of carpentry. Any work whatever in this line will find their orders attended with promptitude. Address,
JAS. R. BOOTH, Deseronto.

28-2

CHOICE LAND PLASTER IN SACKS,

250 lbs for $1.00. Every Farmer should use it.

THE RATHBUN CO'Y.

MCKELVEY & BIRCH,

TINSMITHS, PLUMBERS, STEAM AND
GAS FITTERS,
Dealers in Stoves and House Furnishing
Hardware, Hot Water and Steam
Heating a specialty.

72 BLOOR STREET,
KINGSTON,
ONT.

DESERONTO

Carriage and Wagon Shop.

The subscriber wishes to inform the inhabitants of Deseronto and Vicinity that he has started a Carriage and Wagon Shop. Win. Melton's blacksmith shop where he is prepared to keep on hand and make to order all kinds of

Buggies, Wagons, Sleighs, Cutters, Etc.,
at reasonable prices. Repairing done on the shortest notice, and he hopes, with strict personal attention to details, to merit a share of public patronage.

*27-2 ARTHUR CARTER.

W. B. GRAHAM,
House, Sign and Decorative Painter.

Graining, Glazing, Paper-hanging, Kalsomine, Tinting, Etc.

All orders executed with promptitude and
at very moderate prices.

Orders may be left at T. N. CARTER'S,
Main St., Deseronto.

26-2

DESERONTO
NAVIGATION COMPANY
(LIMITED)

Until further notice the following steamers of the above company will run as follows :

St. DESERONTO.

Leave Napene 6:00 A.M. Leave Picton 3:00 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto 8:30 A.M. Arrive Deseronto 5:00 P.M.
Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M. Arrive Napene 6:50 P.M.

This steamer makes one extra trip between Picton
and Deseronto.

Leave Picton 9:30 A.M. Leaves Deseronto 1:00 P.M.
Arr. Deseronto 11:30 A.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive 7:00

7:27

His Uncle's Heir.

CHAPTER VII.—CONTINUED.

Frank lifted the small trembling hand that clasped his arm reverently to his lips. How should he ever be grateful enough for, ever repay the loyal love that dared so much for his sake!

"Heaven bless you, my darling!" he whispered fervently, and then turned to her father, anticipating some terrible explosion of wrath, and fervently hoping that it would fall upon his head alone.

But nothing came. Mr. Verner stared blankly in the girl's face, then turned his head with a smothered groan.

"Oh, child, you break my heart!" he cried below his breath. "Go, Essie with your sister. I am not angry. I still have that folly that is forgotten; but I have some business—some bad news for—Frank!"

"For me?" the young man broke in wonderingly. "Frank! I only the closer to him, and held her ground with that strange new courage that love had given.

"If there is bad news, I must help him to bear it," she said; and her soft eyes met her father's fearfully.

"What is it?" Frank asked, having run every possible and impossible calamity over in his mind and found none that could effect him very nearly. "No bank can break and ruin me, and I'm so nearly alone in the world now, being well here, death can hardly touch me."

"Death!" Mr. Verner echoed the always terrible word with an emphasis that made more ghosts than ever; his bloodshot eyes rested on the young man's face, though they could not see his soul. "Death can harm every man—and you have relatives, if not friends."

"Relatives and friends too, I hope," Frank broke in wistfully; "but they are all well at De Walden Court."

"All?" the other repeated, with the same strange tone and look.

"Yes, all. At least, I left them so this morning." He paused, and, gathering up his courage, said: "Frank! Verner! I am so rowfully spoken!" The shadows came nearer and nearer, and it means harm to those I love, or to me."

Had that wild, dream terror been prophetic? Had harm come in any strange and terrible shape to the girl? The thought of her great hairless head! His heart throbbed with an unrelash dread as he said hurriedly:

"Oh, what is it? You speak of them. I know—my uncle—is Lady de Walden ill?"

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

He set aside the word with a shrill scream and May herself, trembling violently and very pale, drew instinctively nearer to her sister's side.

But Frank did not see her, or feel the touch of her cold hand; he had eyes and thoughts only for Frank, who seemed literally stunned by what he had heard, and stood staring stupidly before him. Lord Croxford was the only person sufficiently master of himself to take in the full terror of the situation, and venture a question:

"Sir George de Walden's son is killed, you say?" he asked, turning his gold rimmed glasses keenly on Mr. Verner's face, and speaking in the same sombre tones that seemed to introduce a reasonable element into thephantasmal horrors of some hideous dream. "Well, that's very terrible, of course! But, pardon me, why use so shocking a word as 'murder' here?"

May's eyes were suddenly grateful glances at the over-worn was so little wont to shine with an independent lustre, and wondered what erratic outburst could equal in effect that plain and pregnant speech.

"Mr. Verner, wiping the great drops of a mortal terror from his wrinkled forehead, shook his head despairingly as he answered the young man—

"Unfortunately, that is the only word to use. The poor child was found by his unfortunate master this morning, strangled, and quite dead, at the moment before the nurse had tied him on to his little bairn before tightly knotted round his throat."

A dead silence followed; even Lord Croxford drew back, taut and faint, and giddy, and May felt the touch of coldness so suddenly that she clung, at the moment of support; but Essie clung to her lover still, though the face that gazer pale and proud, every instant grew also more indistinct to her stare, until when he spoke his voice sounded faint and feeble.

Yet it was clear and even stern, and he stood like a rock before the man who he knew accused him in his heart.

"To whom they suspect—do they accuse any one of the old man?"

Mr. Verner held the chair before him with a tighter grip, and looked away from the proud agony of those keen eyes.

"They say that—the child was last seen in your charge, that he stood in your way, and—"

"That I murdered him!" Frank finished almost calmly, as, exhausted by the terrible scene through which he had passed, the old man sank back, and tried to draw up against the table and look into his face, his outstretched arms. "Thank you, Mr. Verner; I know the worst now, and I can act!"

"Oh, Frank, poor Frank!" May cried between her passionate sobs. "What a loss is this to us all, to us all!"

"Go back to De Walden Court and meet my accusers face to face!" Frank cried, his gray eyes flashing with a dangerous fire, his clear cut features seeming to harden with every word. "I shall earn innocent baby!"

He paused abruptly and tried to loose the little fingers that had clasped with such piteous strength; she had suddenly lost the power of speech or movement. She could only cling to the man whom fate seemed wresting from her, and try to speak with the dumb agony of her eyes.

"Please me, my darling," he cried brokenly— "for her pain was the hardest of all to bear—let me go, Essie! I brave for my sake, and help me now."

She lifted up stirred, but no sound came from those lips, these questioned, implored, from an ailing love and trust; and Frank could still take comfort from them.

"Take her, May," he said, with an appealing look; and May took her sister away and held her ground with that strange new courage that love had given.

"If there is bad news, I must help him to bear it," she said; and her soft eyes met her father's fearfully.

"What is it?" Frank asked, having run every possible and impossible calamity over in his mind and found none that could effect him very nearly. "No bank can break and ruin me, and I'm so nearly alone in the world now, being well here, death can hardly touch me."

"Death!" Mr. Verner echoed the always terrible word with an emphasis that made more ghosts than ever; his bloodshot eyes rested on the young man's face, though they could not see his soul. "Death can harm every man—and you have relatives, if not friends."

"Relatives and friends too, I hope," Frank broke in wistfully. "But they are all well at De Walden Court."

"All?" the other repeated, with the same strange tone and look.

"Yes, all. At least, I left them so this morning." He paused, and, gathering up his courage, said: "Frank! Verner! I am so rowfully spoken!" The shadows came nearer and nearer, and it means harm to those I love, or to me."

Had that wild, dream terror been prophetic? Had harm come in any strange and terrible shape to the girl? The thought of her great hairless head! His heart throbbed with an unrelash dread as he said hurriedly:

"Oh, what is it? You speak of them. I know—my uncle—is Lady de Walden ill?"

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

He could still feel about his own the warm, close clasp of the fat baby fingers, could hear the merry prattle of the baby's voice, and meet the bright glances of the baby eyes that had so lately been looking up to the heavens. Something rose in his throat with the recalled remembrance, and almost choked him, while tears of which he was all unconscious rose thickly in his eyes.

"Little George! Oh, it is horrible—it seems impossible!" he cried at last, while Essie clung softly to his side, partly in pity for the little lad who was but a name to her, partly in sympathy with her lover's pain.

"Horrible indeed!" Mr. Verner said with a strong shudder. "More horrible than death in its natural shape can ever be, for the child must die."

There followed a brief pause—then Mr. Verner asked sternly:

"Is there no one else at de Walden Court?"

"The lad—little George! Yes; but surely it is he who—"

"Is dead? It is?"

Frank stared at the speaker almost incredulously. It was impossible to associate the grim and terrible idea of sudden death with the bright, face, noble little lad who had been telling him of his life at De Walden manorhouse twenty-four short hours ago.

What The Hand Can Tell.

Within the past few months there has been a great revival of interest in Palmistry, or the art of telling fortunes and character from the lines and marks of the hand. It is a decidedly interesting way of passing an evening and entertaining a small party, and a slight explanation of the subject may be of interest.

As a palmist I have divided the palm into different sections, and named them localities in honor of their principal delights.

The Mount of Venus occupies the base of the thumb, bounded by the vital line. Venus large shows strong, commanding physical powers.

The Mount of Mars indicates material development—strength—in men, and beauty in women. The fine quality of the mount shows grace in movement, love of melody, desire for pleasure, fondness for luxuriant living or dissipation; in other words, harm's way. Firmness here shows endurance; while softness shows a love of ease. Lines here, while the vital line is arc-shaped, while the other lines are straight.

The Mount of Jupiter is found in the upper part of the palm, below the first finger. This is the finger that points, menaces, directs or aspirates. The Mount of Jupiter indicates ambition, power and action, pride, self-respect, aspiration. For all shows arrogance, vanity, tyranny, egotism, boastfulness. Weak or flat, shows a man void of imagination, a plodder, painter, musician, inventor of industrial appliances, the superior artisan—the other characteristics may determine.

Rising on the Mount of Venus, it suggests the pleasure-seeker; on the vital line, a material inclination; on the Mount of the Moon, fanciful ideas or graceful accomplishments. As its term nation is swayed toward the Mount of Mars, it shows a man of war. It will suggest the one who is a pretender, the art critic, the sculptor, painter, musician, inventor of industrial appliances, the superior artisan—the other characteristics may determine.

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Soot-free." Soot, according to Cowell (Law Dictionary), signifies a certain outcast or tollage. The right of voting in the boroughs in England was formerly in these words, "soot-free." The name of soot-free, is from such custom or tollage.

"Strain at a gnat." The Moorish soldier when he drinks unfolds the end of his turban and places it over the mouth of his bota, drinking through the muslin to strain out the gnats, while larva swarm in the water of the bota.

"I go through fire and water to serve you." The Bishop of Rochester possessed the manor of Southfleet, in Kent, before the conquest, and, as not unusual in ancient times, had a castle trying to execute a criminal. The executioner intended not only to acts of felony done in the village, but also over criminals apprehended in another country. An instance of this kind in the year 1200 is mentioned by T. Blount in his "Ancient English." It was of 120 women condemned to be burnt (supposed to be Croydon), and the men of that place, having pursued them to Southfleet, they were imprisoned and tried by the Lord Henry de Cobham, and other disreputable persons, who adjudged them to undergo the fire in their neighborhood in imitation of the hot iron. By this foolish test one of them was excommunicated and the other condemned. The two chief species of trial by ordeal were those of fire and water. Both these modes might be performed by deputy; but as the parties were not always present at the trial, the deputy only venturing some corporate pain for him or, perhaps for friendship. "This" says Blackstone, "is still expressed in that common form of speech going through fire and water to serve you." He tells us in the same page, "that the parties, per ignem et aquam, or the trial by ordeal continued; but it ended with this king."

"By Hook or by Crook." The destruction by the fire of London in 1666, during which the great stone walls were broken down, in very many cases obliterated at the boundary marks requisite to determine the extent of land, and the sites occupied by buildings previous to the fire. When the rubbish was removed, disputes arose among persons as to the position and extent of their property, and it was not always determinable, lawsuits, but created the serious evil of delaying the building of the city until these disputes were settled. Impelled by the necessity of coming to a more speedy settlement, it was determined that the chief intent of all the parties concerned should be referred to a judgment and decision of two of the most experienced land surveyors of that day, and in order to escape from the evils which delay must occasion, the decision of these two arbitrators was to be final and binding. The surveyors appointed were named Mr. Hook and Mr. Crook. Hence arose the saying above quoted.

"He's a brick." Plutarch, in his life of Alexander, King of Sparta, gives us the origin of this saying. In the year 338 before Christ, a hundred years ago at Palmira, England, he formed a partnership with a friend, Thomas Wilson, some years his senior, and with him came to America to embark in the cattle business. They came about for a while and finally settled in New Mexico, where the range was unimitated and herdsman and far apart. They built a comfortable ranch by a little stream, where Wilson's young wife reigned as housekeeper, attended by two or three female domestics. But when she was about to give birth to a son, found it agreeable, while Wilson was absent, about the range, to make love to the latter's wife. This continued for some months, until in the latter part of May one of the cowboys, who had a grievance against Burbank, reported the fact to the woman's husband, whose jealousy had already been aroused.

That night Burbank was captured while asleep in bed by Wilson and three of his men and bound before he had a chance to make his resistance. He was bound and stripped of every bit of clothing and bound on the back of a wild bronco, which was started off by a vigorous lashing. Before morning Burbank became unconscious and remained so until the morning, when he was rescued on the morning of June 3rd, which would make seven days he had been travelling about the plains on the horse's back, bound to it, with a whip and a rod, exposed to the sun and wind. When he was found, he had run two hundred miles from the spot where Burbank was found, and it is hardly probable that the bronco took a direct course, and therefore must have covered many more miles in his wild journey.

When fully restored to health, Burbank proposed to make a visit of retaliation on Wilson, and in this he will be backed by Bousaud's men and those of the Ogallala Indians and the Cattle Company, whose ranch is near Bousaud's.

The thought line begins at the edge of the vital line, and traverses the Plain of Mars toward the Mount of Mars, sometimes crossing the latter, sometimes curving down upon it. The thought line is the thought line, united with the vital line, showing a union of plan and performance, a practical bent in life. At it continues straight it suggests good memory, direct purpose; as it curves, it shows one whose thoughts are ruled by the vital line, and turns down on the Mount of the Moon; imagination is shown. Separated from the vital line at the beginning shows one who will purpose one thing and perform another—one better or worse, better and worse than usually considered. Breaks in this line, especially if they are ragged, or spots upon it, show brain troubles.

The impulse line begins at the edge of the palm below the Mount of Mercury, traverses the palm, passes the thought line, and the vital line, and terminates near, or over, the Mount of Jupiter, sometimes entirely crossing the latter.

This line to the ideal should be full, clear cut, smooth, graceful, curved and branched, indicating the Mount of Jupiter in two or three nearly equal branches. This line in this form shows warm emotions, strong friendship, ardent, persistent affection, noble self-denial. If it passes over Jupiter to the edge of the palm it indexes wealth, and the general happiness in love and labor, intense misery in thwarted attachments or purposes.

As this line terminates before reaching the Mount of Jupiter it indicates less ardent affection, and less nobility.

If the impulse line unite with the thought line under the Mount of Jupiter, it shows one of very unequal character, who is "cool, calculating and cruel," who is ardent, impulsive and violent, but who is not nobly attached; joins throughout, these signs are intended, as is also the case if the thumb is small, the fingers pointed or the skin sensitive.

Breaks, cuts, imperfections in this line show a lack of important social system. The line bare of branches shows concentration of the aspirations and affections. This line channeled, ragged, made up of small strands—overlapping instead of continuous—suggests instability of affection, coquetry, flirtation, as other indications of bad modify.

Without this line will never make a suitable marriage.

The material line may originate in almost any part of the base of the palm, and its general course is toward the Mount of Mars, which is the branch upon which it usually ends. The ideally good material line rises near the wrist, upon or adjacent to the vital line, passing a direct course, closing in a double loop, a trip ending directly in terminating near the highest part of the Mount of Saturn. Such a line tells of an industrious, practical, even purposeful individual, who, that is, who is not a dreamer, directed, sure, sure to win success one after the other to walk upon it without swerving to right or left. Those who succeed are adjudged to be sober, i. e., to have "walked their chalks."

"Cooking your goose." A very simple explanation of this expression may be given by an English ale-house frequenter, when he has been drinking long enough to make a boisterous noise. "I'll give you a half-penny, says he, 'tis not a farthing." Hence the old phrase, "Not worth a rap." Hence the name in all probability, is derived from rappin, a small Swiss coin, value about half a farthing.

"Walk your chalks." A very simple explanation of this expression may be given by an English ale-house frequenter, when he has been drinking long enough to make a boisterous noise. "I'll give you a half-penny, says he, 'tis not a farthing." Hence the old phrase, "Not worth a rap." Hence the name in all probability, is derived from rappin, a small Swiss coin, value about half a farthing.

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Soot-free." Soot, according to Cowell (Law Dictionary), signifies a certain outcast or tollage. The right of voting in the boroughs in England was formerly in these words, "soot-free." The name of soot-free, is from such custom or tollage.

"Strain at a gnat." The Moorish soldier when he drinks unfolds the end of his turban and places it over the mouth of his bota, drinking through the muslin to strain out the gnats, while larva swarm in the water of the bota.

"I go through fire and water to serve you." According to Wilson, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and gout a piece for him to shoot; but, perceiving before night that these few soldiers had invaded and set their chieftains hounds on him, he demanded of him what he intent was. To whom he replied: 'To roast your goose!'

"Cooking your goose." According to Notes and Queries, "cooking your goose" is thus explained: "The King of Sweden, coming to a town in his country, where he had not been before, sent a cook to get a goose. The cook, however, cut off the head and g

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1884.

The recent successes of the French arms in Annam and Tonquin, which have resulted in the acquisition of a large extent of territory from the Chinese authorities, seem destined to be the means of opening up a large portion of China to trade and commerce. The greater proportion of the foreign trade of China is now with Great Britain, but recent events show that France appears determined to become a dangerous competitor. The British authorities in India have not been idle, but have already taken active steps to counteract the designs of the French, by making preliminary surveys for laying down lines of railway to the Chinese frontier from several parts of India. English capitalists will be quite ready to extend these into Chinese territory and tap the rich provinces of Southern China and divert the trade into channels more favorable to Manchester and Birmingham. Chinese exclusiveness has hitherto prevented railway extension in that great Empire but with the example of India and Japan before the minds of her statesmen, a great revolution may soon be expected by which all parts of that vast and interesting country may, by a complete system of railways, be opened up to the commerce of the world. When we consider the millions which form the population of China and the vast material resources of the country, it is manifest that such improved methods of inter-communication must give a vast impetus to mercantile enterprise to which they open up infinite possibilities.

MOLTKE THE SILENT.

Moltke the Silent—der Schwieger—as he is called, is generally considered the greatest, and is certainly the most successful of living soldiers. His achievements at Koniggratz, Sedan, and Paris have never been surpassed, and compel the admiration of all countries. He is a silent, calm, collected, cold, the very incarnation of concentrated thought, just as you see him walking in the streets or moving in a drawing-room, when everybody stands respectfully aside to let him pass—so he stands on the battle field, his cold, dry eyes looking from one point to the other, and his cold, clear mind weighing the chances of victory and defeat with the intensity and serenity of a mathematician pondering over the solution of some grave problem. No one, it is said, has ever seen Count Moltke except at Sedan, where the greatest victory of modern times decided the fortunes of the two most powerful empires of the Continent. His calmness seems mysterious, almost awful, and there is something strangely sad about that silent, lonely old man. His wife died soon after the battle of Sedan, and his nearest relations, with the exception of a nephew and a niece, seem to be kept at a distance by him. Who are his companions and his friends? To whom does he ever talk? Nobody, nobody. Nobody has ever been able to tell me, though I have often inquired. An old man of eighty-four, he still appears without fail wherever duty calls him. He is to be seen at almost all the Emperor's receptions, the most striking personage in the room. But how does the old Field Marshal pass his time when free from duty, when tired of work? Nobody pretends to know. Either no one penetrates into his intimacy, or else those who approach him intimately do not speak about it. When the weather is fine you may see a very tall thin man with very light yellow hair and a salver beard, wrinkled face, out of which shine a pair of stony gray eyes, wrapped in a long dark military coat, a cap on small head, faithfully dressed in a uniform, a gentle, born in every inch of his aristocratic, slender figure, his body still erect, but his head as in deep thought slightly bent forward—such a man, I say, may see coming out of the great red building which stands on the Koenigs-Platz, at the corner of "Moltkestrasse," which is called and which bears the name of "General Stab." The solitary old man, unattended by a servant, walks slowly, noiselessly. Every one who meets him looks at him attentively; for the old boy is a soldier his hands on one side and the other, and his general returns the salute slowly and deliberately, but apparently without seeing to whom. Every time I see him the thought occurs to me that such guide Dante must have passed through the gates of Florence. That is General Field Marshal Helmuth von Moltke, one of the strongest characters the world has ever produced. It is well worth going to Berlin to see that historical personage.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Don't Wait.

Why not a single moment, when you can get instant relief from internal or external pain by the use of Polson's Nervine, the greatest nerve tonic? Nervine has never been known to fail. It is a 10 cent sample bottle. You will find it just as recommended. Neuralgia, toothache, cramps, headache, and all similar complaints disappear as if by magic. Nervine is used. Large bottles 25 cents. Test bottles 10 cents, at Egar's drug store.

The most deadly foe to all material disease is Ayer's Ague Cure, a combination of vegetable ingredients only, of which the most valuable is used in no other known preparation. This remedy is an absolute and certain specific for all fevers when all other medicines fail. A cure is warranted.

Miss Pork, Sausage, Bacon, Sugar and Bologna Sausage, all of the best quality at the Big Store.

Special Announcement.

We take pleasure in announcing that we have made arrangements with the publisher of the Toronto Weekly News which enable us to club at the very low price of $1.25 per year, a trifle over the regular price of the Tribune alone.

This is beyond question the first time that a Toronto weekly has been brought within the reach of subscribers at so small an additional price.

For this comparatively small amount our readers can place themselves in command of the whole situation. All events of interest, local, national, and foreign, will be presented completely and promptly by one or the other of these publications. The single feature of fair and trustworthy market quotations will be worth, to many of our readers, more than the additional amount involved in the clubbing arrangement. To those who are not at all familiar with the character of the Toronto News, we would say it is the best representative of independent journalism in Ontario. The weekly news is a thirty-two column paper, "gram full" of telegraph and general news (no advertisements) pictures, humorous sketches, stories, short and pithy editorials on the topics of the day, written in a familiar yet incisive style, and in all its departments evidently aims to give facts in few words. Pictures and facts, not words, appear to be its motto. We trust that all our readers will avail themselves of this unusual opportunity of securing a Toronto weekly paper at so trifling a cost.

Specimen copies of the Toronto Weekly News may be seen at this office.

ST. JAMES'S DAY, 25th July, was duly observed by the Indians. In spite of hay harvesting being the special order of the day a good congregation assembled at All Saints' Church at 10 a.m., of whom 24 remained to the Holy Communion. This church on Sunday last, 3d Aug., was so thronged with worshippers that from 15 to 20 persons went away from service failing to find seats. At Christ's church there was a very large congregation on Sunday morning, and Rural Dean Baker owing to the unusual number of communicants, nearly 60, had to consecrate the element three times.

SUBSTANTIAL GRIEVANCE.—The council since time past decided a by-law ordering all citizens to procure tags for their dogs and the chief subsequently received orders to carry out the decision of the council. In consequence about seventy people purchased the necessary decoration for their canine friends, but others neglected to do so, and the chief in accordance with his instructions had summons issued against these refractory residents. Here unfortunately the matter rests; nothing further has been done and much righteous indignation is the result. Those who have paid for the tags feel angry that they have gone to the expense of getting tags, while those who set at nought the by-law escape with impunity. There is evidently something rotten in the management of village affairs when such things are allowed to exist. The council pass ordinances which are allowed to be set at nought, just because there is not sufficient nerve to carry out the law. The prosecution of those who infringe the dog by-law should be vigorously carried forward even if a few are offended thereby.

The Big Store is head quarters for sugar; they are selling 16 lbs. "bright refined" for $1.00.

THE EQUITABLE Life Assurance Company,

OF THE UNITED STATES.

HENRY B. HYDE, President.

Assets, $5,080,381.70

Surplus, 12,109,756.00

Dividends, current & arrears, 81,129,756.00

Interest on assets, 5,004,830.84

Income—Pensions, 1,451,082.84

Interest, rent, etc., $10,27,547.96

Interest, rent, etc., 2,743,023.72

Total Income, 13,470,571.68

DEBTORS:

Claims by death & maturity, $3,410,614.97

Dividends, current & arrears, 2,200,000.00

Discounted endowments, 145,452.72

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,070.66

The amount of new assurance written during 1882 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by any company in the world, and the amount for 1883 is eighteen millions larger. The Society has written a larger aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year than any other company in the world.

Total amount paid policy-holders since the formation of the Society, $73,877,099.51.

The amount of surplus in the hands of the Society is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of dividends paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of income paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (including the amount of the premium) is larger than that of any other life assurance company.

The amount of interest paid to policy-holders (

AMERICAN CANOE ASSOCIATION.

The American Canoe Association is now holding its annual Meet for 1884 at Dalancy Point on the northeast end of Grindstone Island in the St. Lawrence. The camp is about four miles from Gananoque, five miles from Clayton and two miles from the Thousand Island Park. There are about one thousand two hundred canoeists in camp and more are coming by every boat, and it is supposed that by the time of the meet there will be four hundred members and guests. General modus Nickerson and Secretary Neale have been kept very busy getting things in good running order but as those officers are in the contentious and general favorites their work has been done satisfactorily easy. On Friday all the St. Pilgrim took down six canoes and camp outfit belonging to members of the Deseronto Club. Mr. S. Rathbun, Capt. of the Club, with Messrs. S. C. Smith, W. B. Rathbun, and W. B. Rathbun had gone down by train and on the arrival of the Pilgrim proceeded to fit up Deseronto Camp. In short time five tents were up and a large display of boats was being put in the breeze. The camp with its pretty white tents and canoes drawn up on the shore presents a very pleasant and attractive appearance to the passers-by. All visitors and friends of Deseronto, will find themselves heartily welcomed by the jovial members of the Club, who are, it is needless to say, having a splendid time. The following members of our local club in addition to those already mentioned will be in camp—Dr. Clinton, E. C. French, W. B. McMurrich, J. B. McMurrich, Wm. Hindlaugh, Jr., Chas. A. Millener, Victor Vickers, and Herbert Rathbun. Mr. N. D. Hart, of Rosedale, Ind., is running a general mess tent for the benefit of those who do not understand the culinary art or who have no camp cook. He gives perfect satisfaction, everything being served up in the shortest possible time. The intention of the whole party is to make a circuit of a distance of about 25 miles, visiting many points of interest in the St. Lawrence. The whole party will on this trip, which was expected to take place to-day, spend an hour or two in the evening at the home of Frank H. Taylor, at his beautiful cottage "Silver Lodge." This trip and visit has been looked forward to by all and, will, prove, no doubt one of the events of the Meet. It is generally acknowledged that none of the great summer meetings are more enjoyable or bring together a better class of pleasure seekers than the meetings of the American Canoe Association.

SHANNONVILLE

(From our Special Correspondent.)
The episodes of one village life have become deliciously sensational. The following will serve as a sample for the week. On Tuesday night last, after Mr. John Lazier had locked up the grist mill, he had occasion to return to look after some papers he had forgotten. On opening the door he found that burglars were in the mill. He quickly called for help and several men in the locality responded to the call. In the meantime the thieves had a skiff in waiting under the arches of the bridge, and within sight and sound of the village, the robbers effected an escape down the river. They had entered through a small trap door on the lower floor and by the same means had escaped. They left behind them a bag of flour that they had filled and a dark lantern. At the escape was engaged in the mill, but the probability is that the same gang had performed the same course for a considerable time and helped themselves to flour and feed in small quantities just as they needed it.

It will be remembered by the readers of THE TRIBUNE that about two years ago a little girl of 10 years was lost in Ameliasburg, and that no tidings of the whereabouts of the little creature have ever been received. For some malicious intent, or a very unseemly joke it had been reported to the parents that our neighbor, Mr. Stock, had the child. In the past week several visits have been made to the village with a view to securing the child. On Saturday last three men came to the house—one of them was Mr. Badgley, the father of the lost child, another was a Mr. Sprague, and the third was Mr. Hattie, the son of the child not transposed. It is presumed the result of the visit was to convince the father that he had been cruelly victimized, and that there was no child that answered for a moment to the one he had lost to be found in Mr. Stock's family. The only thing that comes near it in age is a boy, while the lost child was a girl. Our advice to all parties concerned is not to repeat those annoying visits, or trouble may come out of it.

On Saturday next the first quarterly meeting of the Methodist Church, in the Shannonville Circuit takes place. Quite an interest has been awakened in this meeting as it will be regarded as an official inauguration of the Union movement on the circuit and as we have now no preaching elders to take care of the circuit, the services will be preached by Rev. J. C. Ash, the Superintendent of the Circuit. Mr. Ash will also preach in the Shannonville Church at night a sermon to young men.

PORT OF DESERONTO.—The Customs returns for the Port of Deseronto for the month of July show goods entered for consumption of the value of $3537.00; duty $1081.81. For corresponding month of 1883, the imports were $3183.00; duty $533.76, an increase this year of $2147, and $548, respectively. The exports for July this year reach a value of $44,353, as compared with $38,243 last year, an increase of $6,110. The reports inwards from foreign ports at the Custom House were 35; outwards 44.

CEMETERY.—We learn that another movement has commenced having for its object the purchase of a suitable lot of land for a cemetery. It seems that a desirable lot can now be obtained at but a little distance from the village, and it is hoped that before the close of the summer the cemetery question will be solved. The people of Deseronto have not acted with much energy in this matter in former years, and we trust that the promoters of this last attempt will meet with all success.

BIRTHS.

JACKSON.—At Deseronto, on the 27th July, the wife of John H. Jackson, of a son.

MARTIN.—At Deseronto, on the 28th July, the wife of William Martin, of a daughter.

ALLEN.—At Deseronto, on the first inst., the wife of Charles Allen, of a son.

WOODCOCK.—At Deseronto, on the 4th inst., the wife of Sanford Woodcock, of a daughter.

HARVEY.—At the Mohawk Reserve, Timindaga, on the 4th inst., the wife of Robert Harvey, of a son.

Toronto Weekly News
AND THE TRIBUNE
FOR $1.25.

THE TORONTO WEEKLY NEWS is an Illustrated Paper, unceasing in all the features of enterprising journalism. It stands conspicuous among the best journals of Canada as a complete newspaper, which will be interesting to all men of the family. The children will like the pictures, the young folks the stories and the funny sketches. The news is of the most recent and reliable, the editorials and news matter, which in every issue will be found spicy, incisive and entertaining. In the weekly telegraph service, having the advantage of connection with THE TORONTO DAILY NEWS, it has at its command all the dispatches of the Associated Press. Besides the specimens from N.W.S. and the various departments of the Ontario for which the daily paper is so famous. As a newspaper it has no superior. It is a paper that is bound to be popular, all the papers in the country, and all the papers in the world, have free from party bias or coloring, and is absolutely without fear or favor as to parties. The parliamentary reports are full and accurate, and are dealt with men and measures without gloves, and having regard only to brevity, justice, and truth. It is in the fullest sense a family newspaper. Each issue contains a variety of articles, of Dr. Talmage's latest sermon in Brooklyn Tabernacle, Clara Bell's New York fashion letter, "The Man-About-Town," sketches of the latest and most popular story of absorbing interest, a political cartoon, and a variety of condensed notes, Features, Arts, Industrial, Literature, etc., etc., etc. The paper is punctually complete and to be relied upon. It is just the paper for the young folks, and the old folks will like it just as well. Our special advertising terms bring it within reach of all. Specimen copies may be had at this office. Send your subscription to this office.

NOTICE.

THE SUBSCRIBER DESIRES TO INFORM the public that he will not in future sell farm produce by retail.

D. E. HOWATT,
Manager Bay View Farm.

Deseronto, July 10th, 1884.

Deseronto Laundry.

THE SUBSCRIBER BEGS TO INFORM the public that at Deseronto that she has started a Laundry. At 10 a.m. on Saturday on Thomas st., north of the O'Connor House. Having had ten years experience in Canada and the United States she guarantees satisfaction. Charges moderate.

MRS. HATTIE COUSINS.

Royal Mail Daily Line

TO—Picton, Kingston and Belleville.
(ESTABLISHED 1818)

The Fast Side-wheel Upper Saloon Steamer

"HERO"

(T. J. CRAIG, Master).

Will, until further notice, leave Kingston at 3:30 p.m. sharp, arriving at Bath at 5:30; Picton (upper wharf), 7:30; Deseronto, 9:00, daily, Belleville at 10:30 (Friday excepted).

Returning, will leave Belleville on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 6:00 a.m., ship, Deseronto, 7:30; Picton, 9:00, and Bath at 11:45; Belleville on Tuesday and Thursday at 4:00 a.m., Deseronto to 3:30; Picton 7:45 and Bath 9:15. Deseronto Saturday at 4:30 a.m.; Picton 6:00 and Bath 8:45 arriving at Kingston, 10:00 a.m., and Belleville and Friday at 1:30 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday at 11:00 a.m., and Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

Shippers of freight will find this the cheapest and quickest route to all points on the Lakes, St. Lawrence, and the United States. The rates of freight quoted. Better accommodation and attention, and a first class meal for less money than any former steamer.

Connections at Belleville G. T. R. East and West, and Grand Trunk, L. R. R. at Picton, Central Ontario R. R. and steamer for Napanee and Trenton; at Kingston G. T. R. and Kingston and Pembroke R. E., Royal Mail Line, Rideau Canal and Cape Vincent steamers, and all Steam lines east and west.

For further information apply to the Captain, on board, or to THE RATHBUN COY., Agents.

33 z

MRS. MIX

Has just arrived from Toronto with a large stock of

Feathers, Flowers,

Bonnets, Hats, Etc.

Of the latest styles, which will be sold very cheap.

Don't fail to call before purchasing elsewhere.

Remember the place—near TRIBUNE office, Main St., Deseronto.

ESTABLISHED 1873

Apothecaries Hall.

A full and complete line of

Drugs and

Chemicals,

Toilet articles, Brushes,

Combs, Perfumes,

Patent Medicines

of all kinds,

Trusses and Supporters.

School Books,

Wall Paper

Stationery.

Office of Dr. Newton.

W. Geo. EGAR,

Main Street, Deseronto.

WARREN LELAND,

whose everybody knows as the successful manager of the Largest Hotel Enterprises

of America, says that while a passenger from New York on board a ship going around Cape Horn, in the early days of emigration to California, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself, during the voyage, of an obstinate disease by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Since then Mr. LELAND has recommended AYER'S SARSAPARILLA in many similar cases, and he has never yet heard of its failing.

Some years ago one of Mr. LELAND's farm laborers having his leg broken to the bone, and the doctor said it could never be set, and the limb appeared to be useless.

Some treatment was of no avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND's direction, was supplied with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which allayed the pain and irritation, healed the sore, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use.

Mr. LELAND has personally used for Rheumatism, with entire success; and, after careful observation, declares that, in his belief, there is no medicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Diseases, Gout, the effects of high Living, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Sores, Eruptions, and all the various forms of blood diseases.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla.

We have Mr. LELAND's permission to invite all who are suffering from any disease in regard to the extraordinary curative power of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to see him at his mammoth Ocean Hotel, Long Branch, or at the popular Leland Hotel, Broadway, 21st and 28th Streets, New York.

Mr. AYER, the exacting manufacturer of the goods done by this unequalled medicament of blood poisons enables him to give inquiries much valuable information.

PREPARED BY

DR. J. A. AYER & CO., LOWELL, MASS.
Sold by all Druggists, $1, six bottles for $6.

Cheap Groceries !!

Cheap Groceries !!

—AT THE—

INDIAN STORE

Just arrived a fresh lot of Groceries which we are selling at the following very low prices.

12 lbs. Granulated Sugar $1.00.

14 lbs. Very Bright Sugar $1.00.

15 lbs. Bright Sugar $1.00.

16 lbs. Bright Sugar $1.00.

17 lbs. Good Sugar $1.00.

Other lines will be found equally as cheap.

Don't fail to give us a call and be convinced that you can save 25 cents on the dollar by buying your goods at the

INDIAN STORE.

WATSON KIRK.

JUST OPENED,

12 CASES LAMP CHIMNEYS,

All sizes and shapes—plain and fancy. Salamander Flint Chimneys.

FIVE CASES OF THE FOLLOWING:—

Decorated Shades, Opal Shades,

Paper Shades, Shade Rings, Etc.

Bracket Lamps, Hanging Lamps,

Library Lamps, Chandeliers,

Illuminators, Etc., Etc.

Lamp Burners—all kinds and sizes, Genuine American Head Light Coal Oil, Water White A 1 Canadian Coal Oil, Stoves, Tinware, House Furnishings, Etc.; for Quality and Cheapness cannot be beat.

D. R. MCRAE.

Practical Tinsmith, Plumber, Steam & Gas Fitter.

THE BIG STORE!

Having cleared out most of our Stock since the recent fire in our Store, we are now daily receiving New Goods, in every department, and as we turn over large quantities and pay cash, we are enabled to buy at very low prices.

We are now placing before our Customers a large range of Fresh, New and Fashionable Goods, well worth the attention of all purchasers. Prices are as low as the same class of Goods can be bought in Canada.

We would direct special attention to our stock of

All Wool Nuns Veiling, in all the new Shades.

All Wool Soudan Serges in all the new Shades.

All Wool Cashmeres in all the new Shades.

We would direct special attention to our stock of

Sheetings, Shirtings, Tickings,

Hemp, Kidderminster, and Tapestry Carpets, Oilcloths,

and Lineolums.

IN THE TAILORING DEPARTMENT

We shall maintain our pre-eminence by selling only reliable Goods, manufactured in the newest and most improved styles.

Our stock of Boots and Shoes is second to none in Ontario. We are selling Ladies' Button Kid Top Boots, from $1.25, Lace from $1.00. Boots and Shoes ordered specially for those who are hard to fit.

In the Grocery and Provision Department

Will be found the best selected stock between Montreal and Toronto, comprising all the best goods to be obtained in the home and foreign markets. We are offering another lot of Layer Raisins, splendid quality, at $1.25 a box—worth $2.25.

The Big Store is Head Quarters for Salt in Bbls. and 56lb. Sacks for Dairy Purposes.

A complete stock of Hardware, Crockery and Glassware, Window Glass, Paints and Oil, etc., always on hand. Prices reasonable.

Our Motto is to buy only reliable Goods, and to sell them at the lowest possible price, believing that shoddy, trashy goods are dear at any price.

We shall be glad to show our goods, and quote prices to those who will favor us with a call.

A. A. RICHARDSON,

Manager,

Main street, Deseronto.

THE Deseronto News Co.,
(LIMITED.)

Our JOB PRINTING Department

Is replete with an abundant supply of type and material, together with first-class machinery. We are now in a position to execute all kinds of Job Printing in a very superior manner, at moderate rates, with despatch, and in time promised. Send us call and get an estimate. 229 Orders by mail will receive prompt and careful attention.

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 1884.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

DUCK shooting commences on the 15th inst.

VERY cheap stationery at the Tribune office.

The Rathbun Company have brought 125,000 logs down the Moira river this season.

THE Gananoque Journal states that business on the "Puritan" is on the increase, Capt. Bass proving himself a most courteous and obliging officer.

THE "Hero" still maintains her reputation as a popular boat, and is securing a very large proportion of the bay this season.

TELEPHONE.—The electric staff have connected the Bay View Farm by telephone with the central office, thus securing better facilities for transacting business with that establishment.

AN immense crowd of Belleville people patronized the excursion to Napanee on the str. Quinte last Saturday afternoon. The trip was greatly enjoyed by the whole party.

THEIR will now be a change of programme; excursions to Newburg, Yarker, Tamworth, and other points on the N. T. & Q. The steamers will no longer have everything their own way.

THE passengers can of the Bay of Quinte Railway, which had been up to Cobourg for repairs, arrived home again last week and presents now an exceedingly handsome appearance, having been very elegantly painted and otherwise improved.

THEY were heavy showers last Sunday night, the first coming on as people were coming from their respective churches. There was a great rush for home in order to save good clothes and rich dresses from the threatening elements.

LENOX.—At the Conservative convention held last Saturday afternoon at Napanee, Mr. George T. Blackstock, of Toronto, was nominated to contest the riding in the interests of that party. Mr. Blackstock has signified his intention of accepting the nomination.

Mrs Davenport, who proved herself such a capable and efficient teacher in the public schools, has seen proper to take an important step which unfortunately necessitates the employment of a new teacher. The school board, with their wonted energy and promptitude are already negotiating for the services of a qualified successor.

GRAND EXCURSION.—An excursion per N. T. & Q. Railway and steamer Quinte to Thousand Island Park under the auspices of the Eastern Methodist Church, Napanee, will take place on Saturday next. The str. will leave Deseronto at 8:15 a. m., and arrive at the Park at 4:45 p. m.; returning will leave on Monday, reaching Deseronto at 3:30 p. m. Tickets, double, $1.50. Meals on board 25 cents.

THE PROPER SPIRIT.—The gas-works authorities have taken our reproof in the proper spirit, acknowledged their mistake, and laid down a crossing at Egars corner in Stewart's very best style. This action is highly praiseworthy and might well be imitated by others—by the Board of Health for example, whose members, if they only remembered how the Wise Man characterizes those who hate reproof, would long since have appointed an inspector and otherwise made an effort to protect the health of the community.

DESERONTO BRASS BAND.—The Deseronto Brass Band will have a series of semi-monthly marches on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of each week, for the purpose of placing some additional amounts to the uniform fund. Residents will not forget this when the band calls and it is hoped that there will be a liberal response on the part of every citizen. The band has made marked progress and promises to be a great credit and source of pleasure to the people of Deseronto and should, therefore, be accorded a very liberal support.

CHEAPEST stationery, books, slates, &c., at the TRIBUNE office.

THE Rathbun Company's new offices in Kingston are said to be very complete and elegant in their appointments.

The three towers on the new dry kilns look quite handsome, the tops being artistically finished and covered with tin by Mr. D. R. McRae.

THE str. Hero will take the Odd-fellows of Napanee to Well's Island for their annual picnic on Thursday, the 14th inst.

YESTERDAY was the anniversary of O'Connell's birthday, and the event was celebrated by a large number of excursions in the Bay District.

COMPLAINTS are being made in the agricultural journals that the store credit system is bankrupting the farmers, and that measures should be taken to correct the evil.

CHEAP Bibles and Testaments, and other publications of the Upper Canada Bible Society at Egars. These publications are handsomely bound and sold at lowest possible prices.

THE "Norah," of Belleville, took first prize in the first class yacht race at the Kingston Regatta, the "Iolanthe" of the same city leading in the second class, and the "Mabel," of Gananoque, in the third class.

THE excursion party from Belleville to Napanee last Saturday night presented Capt. Graves of the Quinte, with a handsome Union Jack, a significant hint to all the steamers on the bay which are said deficient in their display of colors.

PICNIC.—Don't forget the picnic of St. Mark's Sunday School to be held in Bedford's grove this afternoon. Trains leave the station at 10:30 and 11:30 a. m., and 4:30 p. m. and return at 8 o'clock. Fare 15cts; children of the School free.

POLICE COURT.—The quiet which has reigned in police circles for months was rudely broken by Dan Sova who was arrested by Chief Gunyon on Sunday and placed in custody until Monday morning, when he was far too leniently let off with a nominal fine of one dollar, instead of getting one month with hard labor.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The first quarterly meeting of the Methodist Church, Deseronto, will be held on Sabbath morning next. Love-feast at 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 o'clock, followed by the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The official meeting for the transaction of business, will be on Monday morning, when he was far too leniently let off with a nominal fine of one dollar, instead of getting one month with hard labor.

A GIANT elm tree has been found a few miles from Pickering which at four or five feet from the ground measures thirty-three feet in circumference, being eleven feet in diameter. Its magnificent crown of foliage can be seen for miles towering high above the other trees of the forest.

WE should like very much to know the residence which was not visited by the burglars on the night of their last visit to Deseronto. There must have been a gang one hundred strong to make the number of visits they accomplished during a few hours.

INDIAN COUNCIL.—The Indian Council will meet at an early day to discuss and arrange for the re-leasing of the reserve, and other important business. It is their intention to make important repairs on the Council House, for which purpose an appropriation of $875 has been made.

LAUNCH.—Capt. Garrett's handsome new steamer, the "Ida," will be launched at 5 o'clock p. m. on Saturday 16th inst. The interesting ceremony of naming the new vessel will be performed by Miss Garrett, the owner's daughter. The "Ida," which promises to be every respect a model boat, will leave the following Monday for Kingston and Ottawa.

A QUESTION agitating the breasts of many interested citizens is, whether Messrs. Jenkins, Totman and Mitchell will give an oyster supper in September, or an evening excursion on the Utica immediately on the completion of the new dry kilns. Knowing how defective are the memories of the best intentioned men, it would be perhaps advisable to have the excursion.

THE quiet beauty of the Bay of Quinte is well known to all our people who take a sail on its placid waters. Fair as the prospect may appear to the excursionist as he gazes on it from the deck of a steamer, it is not for one moment to be compared with what may be seen by the pleasure seeker who drives along the road which in some places skirts its banks. This is particularly the case along the high shore from Powles' Ferry to Picton from which many fine views of unequalled loveliness can be obtained. We fancy that but few residents of Deseronto are aware that such charming picturesqueness of scenery can be so easily reached or they would not be content until they had gone over the ground for themselves. Possibly the fact that the bay has to be crossed by a ferry deters many who would otherwise be inclined to take the trip by land to Picton, Northport and other points in Prince Edward.

NAPANEE AND TAMWORTH RAILWAY.—The first regular passenger trains passed over the line on Monday. Many passengers went out on the first day and everything was found to work satisfactorily, the trip being pronounced very pleasant and the beautiful country through which the line passes greatly enjoyed. The people of the different villages were all delighted to see the first regular trains, which they have been so long expecting. The time table of the new road will be found in another column.

SCORES of dogs are roaming the streets without a tag.

NOTICE.—There will be no service in the Church of the Redeemer next Sunday.

REV. W. C. COULTHARD, of St. Andrew's Church, Picton, preached with much acceptance in the Church of the Redeemer last Sunday, Rev. R. J. Craig taking the services in Picton.

WELCOME VISITOR.—Mr. William Bowes states that a worm is making terrible ravages on the thistles on his farm. It is to be hoped this new visitor will make a long stay in this vicinity.

I. O. F.—Dr. Oronhyatekha, S. C. R., E. Bottedar, J. B. Halkett, E. S. Gummer, and T. G. Davey will address a public meeting under the auspices of Deseronto Court of Foresters on Saturday 16th inst, in Rathbun Hall at 8 p. m.

MORE CABBAGE.—The demand for Bay View cabbage is insatiable, and Mr. Howatt already laments the introduction of the telephone, as it means more orders and consequently much more work. On Monday morning he has cut, packed and shipped 1,737 heads by 8 o'clock. His supply appears, nevertheless, to be inexhaustible.

NEW BUILDING.—Mr. Geo. Stewart, is moving the old building on the east side of the Deseronto House, across the street to a site on the Marjole lot, east of Mr. Butler's shop. It is Mr. Stewart's intention to proceed at once with the erection of a fine brick building which will be fitted out for two shops, the one suitable for a boot & shoe store, and the other for a dry goods establishment.

METHODIST EXCUSION.—An excursion to the St. Lawrence Central Camp Ground of the Methodist Church, will take place on Saturday, August 23rd, leaving Belleville in the morning and calling at Deseronto, Picton and intermediate ports, returning on Monday.

At LAST.—The meanest man has at last come to the front. He gives as his excuse for not contributing to the support of the church, that he has been exposed this year to the additional obligation of paying a dog tax.

THE members of the Canadian Press Association reached Port Arthur on Monday after a pleasant trip up the lake. On their arrival they were met at the pier by a large crowd of citizens with a band and presented with an address.

A GIANT elm tree has been found a few miles from Pickering which at four or five feet from the ground measures thirty-three feet in circumference, being eleven feet in diameter. Its magnificent crown of foliage can be seen for miles towering high above the other trees of the forest.

WE should like very much to know the residence which was not visited by the burglars on the night of their last visit to Deseronto. There must have been a gang one hundred strong to make the number of visits they accomplished during a few hours.

INDIAN COUNCIL.—The Indian Council will meet at an early day to discuss and arrange for the re-leasing of the reserve, and other important business. It is their intention to make important repairs on the Council House, for which purpose an appropriation of $875 has been made.

LAUNCH.—Capt. Garrett's handsome new steamer, the "Ida," will be launched at 5 o'clock p. m. on Saturday 16th inst. The interesting ceremony of naming the new vessel will be performed by Miss Garrett, the owner's daughter. The "Ida," which promises to be every respect a model boat, will leave the following Monday for Kingston and Ottawa.

A QUESTION agitating the breasts of many interested citizens is, whether Messrs. Jenkins, Totman and Mitchell will give an oyster supper in September, or an evening excursion on the Utica immediately on the completion of the new dry kilns. Knowing how defective are the memories of the best intentioned men, it would be perhaps advisable to have the excursion.

THE quiet beauty of the Bay of Quinte is well known to all our people who take a sail on its placid waters. Fair as the prospect may appear to the excursionist as he gazes on it from the deck of a steamer, it is not for one moment to be compared with what may be seen by the pleasure seeker who drives along the road which in some places skirts its banks. This is particularly the case along the high shore from Powles' Ferry to Picton from which many fine views of unequalled loveliness can be obtained. We fancy that but few residents of Deseronto are aware that such charming picturesqueness of scenery can be so easily reached or they would not be content until they had gone over the ground for themselves. Possibly the fact that the bay has to be crossed by a ferry deters many who would otherwise be inclined to take the trip by land to Picton, Northport and other points in Prince Edward.

NAPANEE AND TAMWORTH RAILWAY.—The first regular passenger trains passed over the line on Monday. Many passengers went out on the first day and everything was found to work satisfactorily, the trip being pronounced very pleasant and the beautiful country through which the line passes greatly enjoyed. The people of the different villages were all delighted to see the first regular trains, which they have been so long expecting. The time table of the new road will be found in another column.

REV. W. C. COULTHARD, of St. Andrew's Church, Picton, preached with much acceptance in the Church of the Redeemer last Sunday, Rev. R. J. Craig taking the services in Picton.

WELCOME VISITOR.—Mr. William Bowes states that a worm is making terrible ravages on the thistles on his farm. It is to be hoped this new visitor will make a long stay in this vicinity.

I. O. F.—Dr. Oronhyatekha, S. C. R., E. Bottedar, J. B. Halkett, E. S. Gummer, and T. G. Davey will address a public meeting under the auspices of Deseronto Court of Foresters on Saturday 16th inst, in Rathbun Hall at 8 p. m.

MORE CABBAGE.—The demand for Bay View cabbage is insatiable, and Mr. Howatt already laments the introduction of the telephone, as it means more orders and consequently much more work. On Monday morning he has cut, packed and shipped 1,737 heads by 8 o'clock. His supply appears, nevertheless, to be inexhaustible.

NEW BUILDING.—Mr. Geo. Stewart, is moving the old building on the east side of the Deseronto House, across the street to a site on the Marjole lot, east of Mr. Butler's shop. It is Mr. Stewart's intention to proceed at once with the erection of a fine brick building which will be fitted out for two shops, the one suitable for a boot & shoe store, and the other for a dry goods establishment.

W. L. Page, of W. L. Page & Bro., Franklin, R. I., June 3, 1882.

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me and are my constant companion. I have been using them for many years and they have done me much good. They are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and give me relief. They are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have found them to be the best medicine for the cure of constipation. I have used them for all kinds of diseases, and they are the most effective and the easiest to take. I have never had a case of constipation which did not respond to their use. They are the best medicine I have ever used."

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless

The Tribune.

VOL. I.

DESERONTO, ONT., THURSDAY, AUGUST 14, 1884.

NO. 47

THE TRIBUNE,

Published every Thursday Morning.

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO. (Limited),

Publishers and Proprietors.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—One copy, $1.00 per year; 50 cents per six months. Strictly in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES cheerfully made known on application. Favourable contract rates for large or continued advertising.

All communications should be addressed to

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO., (Limited),

Deseronto, Ont.

PUBLIC DIRECTORY.

GOAL.

FROM HOUSE USE OR BLACKMAILED SHOPS, AT lowest market rates. Write for prices.

THE RATHBUN CO.

SALY.

BY CAR LOAD, BARREL, OR IN BULK, AMER-
IKA or Canadian, at lowest market rates. Write

THE RATHBUN CO.

LAND PLASTER.

WATER, TURFLAND, CEMENT, AND
Underlayment, sale and full directions given how to use successfully. Write to

THE RATHBUN CO.

NOTICE.

INSURANCE ON FARM OR VILLAGE PROPERTY at low rates in Standard Stock Companies of the Royal Insurance Company of Canada, of England, Scotland, and British American of Toronto.

THE RATHBUN CO.

17-2

Agents.

KINDLING WOOD.

FARMERS TAKE ONE GOOD GOOD SOFT WOOD throughout, in the best sizes, large and convenient for all kinds of fuel. The best and most economical fuel for all kinds. They will help make the money go quickly.

ALEX. MCGARRY, Agent.

THE DESERONTO HOUSE.

THE HOUSE HAVING RECENTLY HAD MANY
improvements is now in excellent condition and affords public places of entertainment, Concerts, balls, &c., for the convenience of travellers.

First-class Bar and Library in connection.

GEORGE STEWART, Proprietor.

1-4

Deseronto, Ont.

O'CONNOR HOUSE.

THIS HOTEL IS ELEGANTLY FURNISHED
throughout, in the best style. Large and convenient for all kinds of fuel. The best and most economical fuel for all kinds. They will help make the money go quickly.

E. O'CONNOR, Proprietor.

2-4

Deseronto, Ont.

The Windsor Hotel,

PRINCIPAL AND MONTEAL STS, IN KENYON,
Ontario, Canada. First-class in every respect.
E. R. Smith, Chief Officer.

MARIN O'BRIEN, Proprietor.

3-4

Deseronto, Ont.

MARRIAGE LICENCES.

T. FILE, ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENCES,
Deseronto, Ontario. 3

J. ROBINSON,

P. MISTER, M. MISTER, BAKER, HANCOCK, CRAIN-ER, etc., Deseronto, Ontario. Knobshaving and Colouring in all its branches. Will execute all orders in our line, great or small, promptly and satisfactorily.
Orders should be sent to the MISTER Office, and left at the MISTER Office.

2-4

HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE, ON most eligible house and lot in the village of Deseronto—situated on the North side of Thomas St. For further particulars apply to
R. G. GOW, Deseronto.

3-4

Deseronto, Ont.

JAMES R. BOOTH,

BUILDER AND CONTRACTOR, IS READY TO
attend all orders in Mason work, Brick work, Stone work, etc., and will supply any work whatever in this line will find their order attended to with promptitude. Address,
JAS. R. BOOTH, Deseronto.

2-4

Deseronto, Ont.

CHOICE LINDA PLASTER IN SACKS,

250 lbs for $1.00. Every Farmer
should use it.

THE RATHBUN CO.

3-4

MCKELEVY & BIRCH,

TINSMITHS, PLUMBERS, STEAM AND
GAS FITTERS,

Dealers in Stoves and House Furnishing

Hardware, Hot Water and Steam
Heating, a specialty.

72 BROOK STREET,
KINGSTON.

1-4

DESERONTO

Carriage and Wagon Shop.

2-4

ARTHUR CARTER,

Buggies, Wagons, Sleighs, Cutters, Etc.,
at reasonable prices. Repairing done on the shortest notice, and he hopes, with strict personal attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

27-0

ARTHUR CARTER,

W. B. GRAHAM,

House, Sign and Decorative Painter.

Painting, Glazing, Paper-hanging, Kalsomeinating, Tinting, Etc.

All orders executed with promptitude and
at very moderate prices.

Orders may be left at T. N. CARTIN's,
Main St., Deseronto. 24-6

DESERONTO

NAVIGATION COMPANY

(LIMITED).

Until further notice the following steamers
of the above company will run as follows:

Str. DESERONTO.

Leave Deseronto 6:00 A.M., Arrive Picton 7:00 P.M.

Leave Deseronto 8:00 A.M., Arrive Picton 9:00 P.M.

This steamer makes one extra trip between Picton
and Deseronto.

Leave Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M., Arrive Picton 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:00 A.M., Arrive Deseronto 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Deser

THE Deseronto News.
(LIM. EDITION.)

was poor. Sir George had come to the jail, and, as he was impossible to be sent to any other place, he was compelled to remain. The nurse, though she had tried to restrain the first told, was with every appearance of gravity—and she honestly believed that in the spirit, if not the letter, she spoke the above truth that she had relinquished her charge to Sir George de Walden, when they two had gone out together, that Sir George de Walden had never returned, while the child was found murdered in the shrubbery, strangled by the sash she had tied around his neck.

The woman broke down in a tempest of hysterical tears when she spoke the last words, and a thrill of indignant sympathy ran through the crowded court. But the sentence she pronounced was not quite complete, when the judge called all hearts when Sir George de Walden stepped suddenly into the witness-box, and, clutching at the chair-back, as though to steady himself, began in hoarse, vibrating tones to tell his tale.

He dwelt on every circumstance that could connect his nephew with the crime with a sort of malignant intensity. By sheer force of will he seemed to bear it upon his heart, as though it were his own soul's pain. Men and women who had doubted before felt their doubts borne away upon the strong current of that deliberate yet passionate speech: eyes that had rested almost compassionately on the worn, proud, young face turned from it with loathing then. Even the pale and loathsome face of the accused, in full strength that would have told in the prisoner's favor in any other circumstances, seemed an argument against him with the weight of ten thousand stones, for it was clear that he was young and had been tried against the weakness of a child. But of all the fierce feeling awakening against him Frank knew nothing; he hardly listened to the words his eyes rested with such pitying earnestness on the old man's altered face. Sir George had come to the witness-box, having had his sixty odd years with so abundant a grace that few strangers would have thought him more than fifty. Now the upright figure was bowed, the gray hair white as snow; the eyes red-rimmed and sunken, the skin pale and wan, seemed the only signs of life in a dead face, and they bespoke only pain and hate.

While giving his evidence Sir George started before him, as though measuring the weight of every word he spoke upon the scales of justice, and as he left the box, he glanced over in his nephew's direction, met fully the passionate gleaming eyes of the pitiful gray eyes, and drew back as though the other had offered to touch him. "I call on you all to witness," he cried, "that I am not as unfeeling as was expected as it was impossible that one man had an interest in my child's death, and I say that that man killed him!"

Of course the tumult caused by these words was immediate repressed, and the witness remained that he must offer evidence only; but the witness was gone, and there remained only the impression left by his words. People turned pale, and the old man, the prisoner grew deadly white, and that, for the first time that day, the muscles twitched with a sort of nervous distress; but he lifted his head almost immediately and glanced round with a look, not defiantly, but with quiet disdain.

Since then he had seen nothing of his uncle, though he had heard indirectly that he still pursued him with an unrelenting hate, still firmly in his guilt; but in a subject that he could discuss only with his lawyer, Frank and Clegg, on whom that one interview had made a cruelly strong impression, avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

He welcomed the girls with eager gladness now, in the time in which he was free to visit him, was visiting, pitifully sent his trial was fixed for the tenth of October, two days from the present time, and after that—He never dared carry his thoughts to the past that time; he should either be free, saved by the grace from the net that had ensnared him, or—

He lifted the pale brave little face between his hands and gazed upon it with a fondly critical gaze, noting the violet tinge beneath the steadfast eyes, the fine lines about the sweet smooth mouth, "She's brave and houseful, Esie?" he asked in a half whisper; and Esie answered aloud—

"Not only hopeful but sure. I have not shaken your head, dear! I have not one doubt that you know your innocence, and Heaven will prove it in time."

Torre was all the time in a state of secret conviction in her sweet unfeeling tones. She spoke a person speaks from knowledge, not from faith. In spite of himself and his fears, Frank felt a faint thrill of hope, and May turned round from the window with a little sob.

"She always talk like that. She never seems to waver. The child is either inspired or mad! But I am neither. And, oh, Frank, I have no right to trust in your innocence, or in any man's. I must try to think of some one who would, or could, be think enough to kill that poor little child?"

Frank laid his hand on the girl's graceful shoulder with a touch that was in itself a caress.

"Poor May!" he said gently. "You must not cry your pretty eyes out, or break your heart for me; that would be treating Frank like a child. By-the-way, where is that loyal friend to-day?"

"He was to have met us here." May answered, drying the eyes he apostrophized with a gentle little dab, and speaking with an air of petulance of pain. "But he is long past his time; perhaps he has too turned traitor and deserted us; nothing would surprise me now."

"I think that would," Frank said, with his gentle tired smile. "Hark! May! There is a sharp pain on your injurie; he hear his step and voice to-day?"

Almost before the words had passed his lips, Lord Croxford was in the room, and at the first sight of his face May jumped up with a shrill little scream, and Esie clasped her hands round Frank's Walden's arm, as though supporting him against some sudden shock.

For the young Viscount was literally radiant; his skin was flamed, his gold glances as those like lamps, his lips quivered with the vain effort to surprise a happy smile.

"Oh, Croxford, you have news—good news!" May cried with passionate eagerness. "Tell it quickly. We can bear any shock of joy."

"You good news, and a visitor," Croxford answered, clasping his sweet heart's hand, but looking at the prisoner's pale proud face.

"Frank, dear old fellow, prepare yourself to see Sir George de Walden."

"He could come on but one errand," Esie cried, her blue eyes radiant with an unshaken light of faith, but with something of the old sweet innocence of her face.

"Frank, you will see him, dearest?"

But Lord Croxford had not waited for the answer; he had gone back to the door, and now retraced, leading in Sir George de Walden.

Presently the young man stood proudly irreconcile, for one moment, the old man stood, with bent head and cruel working face, before the nephew he had wronged and hated. It seemed as though neither could now how to break the eloquent silence. At last, touching with an intense and aching pain for the crushed and broken hand,

"Such men are worse than wild beasts," Croxford answered madly. His honest face was pale with sympathetic pain; but he hurriedly added, "And his cruel vengeance did not end there. He waited in the shrubbery until Lady de Walden came, and then rose up like a demon beside her, and, overwhelming the poor woman with a series of reproaches, flung the dead child at her feet.

"You know the rest, Frank," Lord Croxford went on, after a brief pause, broken by the other's choking sobs. "The sleek young man, who had been the victim of his uncle's malice, had been driven to疯狂, and, with an audacity that seems almost incredible, went straight back to Port Rico, where he led for some weeks a life of reckless dissipation, and was finally killed in a drunken brawl, lingering, thank Heaven, just long enough to clear and save you."

"Lord Croxford leaned back in his chair and resumed his cigar with a relieved sigh, watching his friend keenly the while through the glass of his spectacles. "Sir George had not served to restore Frank's Walden's nerve and strength of which the long imprisonment and longer strain of suspense had robbed him. He looked pale and harassed, and started at every unexpected sound in a way that would have seemed absurd to the athletic young fellow of a few months back.

"There is but one care for him, complete change of scene and thought, and but one travelling companion who will serve to round out the boy's young life, decided within himself. 'I will tell it to Sir George to-morrow; he must see that Frank has been sacrificed long and cruelly enough, even to such a sorrow as his.'

He carried out his intention; and, as Sir George had taken the most curious fancy of the young man, May's Viscount, much was decided at the conference between them and Frank was not a little astounded by a summons to his uncle's presence.

He obeyed it with a sort of languid distaste—not that he harbored any bitter or resentful thought against the man who had done him wrong, but that he shrank always and nervously from any personal contact, from any expression of remorse or regret, from any touching upon the unhealed, aching wound in his memory and thoughts.

It was an inexpressible relief and almost as much a surprise to him to see May's Viscount's honest face, the sick man's chair, to see the eager plauditing which his uncle had held out this hand to greet him.

"At last, Frank!" he cried, trying to keep the faint touch of reproach out of his voice, "you have never been coming near me again."

Frank muttered some few words of apology, but the boy's honest face, the man's, stand how the whole thing came about now.

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

Frank nodded. "You never lost faith in me," he said gravely.

"Yes? Well, no; I was not quite such an ass; but my faith in your lucky star was getting decidedly shaky. Certainly I never dreamt that your uncle would be the man to come forward and expose your innocence."

"My friend, I do not know how to stand the whole thing came about now."

Do not stare, Croxford; I know of course that I am free, and that that fellow Lani was the murderer; but there my knowledge really ends."

He told the whole story has been printed in every newspaper in the kingdom," Lord Croxford persisted in mock amazement, "and that one interview had made him a cruelly strong impression. avowedly shirked it. As when Esie is and May were with him other matters filled his thoughts.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 14, 1884.

The Ontario and Quebec section of the Canadian Pacific Railway has been opened for regular traffic and the Syndicate are accordingly making every exertion to secure a large portion of the passenger travel from Montreal to the West. In order to accomplish this they have fitted out a number of cars in a most comfortable manner for the use of through immigrants. This is a wise move on the part of the astute managers and it deserves to be rewarded with success. It has unfortunately been the case that little or no attention has hitherto been paid to the comfort of immigrants in the long journey by train from the sea ports to their new homes in Canada or the Western states, and much misery and sickness has often been the result of this neglect. The same remarks may be made of the arrangements for second class passengers on all railway lines. The comfort of this class of travellers has never for one moment been consulted by railway officials, who consider filthy cars with the hardest and most uncomfortable seats good enough for those whose circumstances prevent the purchase of a first-class ticket. Had a different policy been followed there is but little doubt that the financial exhibit of some of the Canadian lines would have been much better than at present. The truth is, however, at last dawning on railway managers that cheap fares and attention to the comforts of passengers mean greatly increased earnings for their roads. Let us hope, therefore, that the good work will continue to go on. There is one movement which would be very popular, viz.: the prevention of smoking in second class cars. It is a wonder how women and children manage to live in the stifling atmosphere of smoke from the vires to bacoo in the long journeys which they undergo. It would add immeasurably to the comfort of those humble travellers if companies would prohibit this nuisance and afford second class smoking cars to all trains.

BOARDWALKS—The Council are keeping pace with the times by putting down new crossings at different points and adding to the board walk system. Mr. W. Stewart has been busy this week putting down a fine six foot walk on the east side of St. George street where it was so badly needed. It were well for the street commissioners to replace the heavy and warped timbers which constitute the crossings on the west side of the same street, over Thomas and Edmond streets, by something more suitable. Old residents who have been knocking their toes against them for the last twenty years would, no doubt, greatly miss those old landmarks, but in these degenerate days there is but little veneration for the relics of the past, and they must therefore go.

GRAND CONCERT—A grand concert, under the auspices of the Deseronto Cornet Band, will be held in Rathbun Hall, on Tuesday evening 19th inst. The committee have made a most decided hit by securing the services of the renowned, charming pianist and bird voiced phenomenon, Miss Jessie M. Armstrong, of Canton N. Y., and of Prof. Bonsell, of Ottawa. The best local talent of Deseronto and vicinity will also assist, and the Deseronto Cornet Band will also render selections during the evening. Such a rare treat is seldom offered to the people of this section of Ontario and, independent of the fact that the concert is in aid of the Band Uniform Fund, should bring out every resident of the village. Tickets which are placed at 25 cents, and 50cts, reserved seats, should be secured immediately from members of committee.

PERSONAL.

"She all seems to be or mad I Ba Miss F. Davis is visiting friends at Carter's in Deseronto, N. Y. Mr. C. L. Miller has been spending some of his time in town, enough to kill Robert Clapp, Esq., of Pierton, was in shoulder with Miss Bella Lafferty is visiting at Capt. care's.

"Poor May Mr. Arnold, government engineer, spent not o'er your pat Saturday in town, kind heart for Rev. T. Stanton of St. Mark's, conducted Croxford badyfites at Trenton last Sunday.

"Loyal friend to Mr. G. A. Brownie was visiting friends in the beginning of the week, swered, dyspepsia. Miss File was never in town last week very pleasantly at Davy's Island.

"Mr. J. M. Poltair was confined to the house by illness for a few days recently.

"Mr. G. A. Brownie has been enjoying a trip to the Thousand Islands.

"Miss Northcott, of Belleville, spent Wednesday visiting friends in town.

"Miss Millie Anderson has been renewing acquaintances in Prescott during the past week.

"Miss Bella Ely, of Kingston, is visiting in town as the guest of Mrs. W. R. Aylsworth.

Miss Eva Miller has returned home to Prescott, after a very pleasant visit to Deseronto.

Miss Louise Miller, of Prescott, is visiting friends in Deseronto, being during her stay of Mrs. S. Anderson.

"Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Pile, and the Misses Pile, were yesterday by the "Hero" on a visit to Kingston.

Mr. W. Widdington and family arrived from England last week to take up their residence in Deseronto.

"Rev. J. C. Craig is spending a few days at the Deseronto Camp of the American Canoe Association.

"Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Rathbun returned home on Monday from a very enjoyable visit to Wellington.

"Mr. H. Butcher and children, of Port Colborne, are visiting Deseronto as the guests of Mrs. T. H. Smith.

"Miss H. H. of Centerville, has returned home after spending two weeks very pleasantly with her sister, Mrs. T. Roach, junior.

"Mr. T. Hopkins, of Kingston, is now posted in the central offices of the Rathbun Company, and Mrs. J. S. Stokes promoted to Big Store Office.

"Mr. F. S. Rathbun and Dr. Clinton returned home from the Grand Canoe Meet on Tuesday morning, having had a splendid time with the great party of brother canoeists.

"Mr. and Mrs. A. Griffin, with Master and Miss Griffin, arrived in town last Friday to spend a few weeks at different points on the Bay. During their stay in Deseronto, they are the guests of Mr. F. G. Jenkins.

Ayot's Saraparilla is designed for those who need a medicine to purify their blood, build them up, increase their appetites, and rejuvenate their whole system. No other preparation so well meets this want. It touches the exact spot. Its record of forty years is one of constaunt triumph over disease.

MARRIAGES.

KIRK—HANLON.—On Tuesday 12th Aug. at Christ's Church, Belleville, by Rev. E. Sibbald, Mr. Watson Kirk, grocer, Deseronto, and Miss Lucy M., youngest daughter of Mr. John Hanlon, of Manchester, England, late of Bay City, Mich. No cards.

McCALLUM—TONER.—On the 4th inst., at the Catholic church, Marysville, by the Rev. Father Mackay, James McCallum, merchant, Lonsdale, to Miss Elizabeth Ellen, daughter of the late Francis Tonner, Royalton, N. Y. The wedding was at St. Charles Church, North Tyndinaga, by the Rev. Father Meade, Michael, son of John Roddy, to Bridget, daughter of Peter Tighe, all of the sixth concession.

DEATHS.

SIMITH.—On the 4th inst., Mrs. Smith, widow of the late James Smith, of the 6th con. of Tyndinaga.

NOTICE TO BUILDERS.

TENDERS FOR THE REPAIRING OF THE DESERONTO COUNCIL HOUSE, to be submitted on the 15th instant. Signed up to Saturday the 30th August 1884 at the hour of 12 o'clock noon. A plan and specification of the work may be seen at Indian office on the Reserve. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. The work must be completed by the 1st November, 1884.

MATTHEW L. LL.,
Indian agent,
Shannonville P. O.

Council House, Aug 12, 1884.

THE EQUITABLE Life Assurance Company,
OF THE UNITED STATES.

HENRY B. HYDE, President.

Assets, $3,000,381.70
Surplus, 12,109,756.79
Premiums written in 1883, 81,329,00
Increase of premium, 1,800,478.00
Increase of assets, 5,004,830.00
Increase of surplus, 1,461,082.84
Income—Premiums, $10,727,547.96
Interest, rent, etc. 2,748,023.72

Total income, 13,470,571.68
DISBURSEMENTS

Claims by death & matured endowments $3,110,614.97
Dividends, premiums, interest, &c., 8,000,000.00
Discounted endowments, 143,455.72

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

W. J. SMYTH,
Manager for the Province of Ontario,
S. G. D. & Co., Agents,
2 & York Chambers, Toronto,
B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBUN COMPANY,
Agents, Deseronto.

25-5

Total paid policy-holders in 1883, $6,461,679.66
The amount of new assurance written during 1883 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by this company in one year; the business of 1883 is eighteen per cent. larger than that of 1882, and the aggregate amount of new assurance during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. Total assets of the Society, $73,877,699.51. The amount of new assurance written during the past year is larger than that of any other company in the world. The Society issues a plain and simple contract, and uncontested after technical conditions, and uncontested after payment of premiums. All Policies as soon as they become uncontested are payable in full, and the amount of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the delay of six or ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested cases, and no legal books.

AMERICAN CANOE ASSOCIATION.

(For our own correspondent.)

DESERONTO, ONTARIO, STATE OF CANADA.

I am State of New York, yet if by a mistake I rolled out of the bank at the door of the tent, I would roll into Canada as I touched the water. The Deseronto Camp is prominent on the Island with its fine white tents as is the its looking and of course, its fine looking men. Scattered along the banks for eight hundred yards lie the different camps of the American Canoe Association, the very successful meet of last year at St. Mary's taken up the Association with a vigorous life, and with great increase in membership it gathers now in the bosom of the Thousand Islands. Within a circumference of four miles are the Grand, Round, Island, Head and Thousand Island Park. The days are spent in sailing and the evenings in visiting by steamer one of those places. Most of the States and provinces of Ontario and Quebec are represented. Splendid specimens of America's young men may be seen here. All professions patronize the Association; numerous visitors have already homed in the various scenes of recreation. The boats of the river are a greeting, and our tin horns, kazoo, bugles and whistles responded. Around the pine-knot fire on the top of the hill back of the camp, gather the singers, and the tellers of stories and words by Captain, we are told, Monday next is a gay day, when in flying colors and gayest dress the fleet will review. Tuesday and Wednesday will be occupied with races, and towards the end of the week the camp will break up.

THE "IDA"

The handsome steamer "Ida," which will be ready for service on Saturday afternoon, is the latest addition to our little fleet of river vessels which have been built in the Deseronto shipyards. Work was commenced in May, and she would have been finished by the first of July had there not been some vexatious delay in getting the machinery. As it is, however, the work has been performed in quicker time than any previous contract in that department. The dimensions of the new vessel are as follows:—Length of keel, 85 ft.; over all, 90 ft.; breadth of beam, 20 ft.; depth of hold, 7 ft.; draft of water, 5 ft. 6 in.; and the total carrying capacity will be 150 tons and she can accommodate about 250 passengers. She has been handsomely fitted up in good style with the latest modern improvements, and no expense has been spared by Capt. Grant and his crew to make her complete in all her appointments. There are several state rooms for passengers on the upper cabin, each room having double berths. The cabin is made of panel work both outside and in. There is a large dining room 22 ft. long and 12 ft. wide, with water and wash room attached. The staterooms are on the main deck and have been designed with a view to comfort as well as neatness. The boiler, engine and machinery were constructed by the firm of Black Bros., of Brockville, and are of most substantial character. The engine is 120 h.p. and 14 inch stroke, and she will be propelled by a wheel of a peculiar make—the "Clute" wheel manufactured in Schenectady; its size, 4 ft. 6 in. She will attain a speed of fully 12 miles an hour. A careful inspection shows that the work has been done in a most painstaking and substantial manner, and too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Wm. Evans, the Superintendent of the Rathbun Company's yard for the careful and skillful work he has done. He has so successfully lectured on the work in hand that he was zealously aided by a corps of able assistants. The new steamer, which takes its name from Miss Ida Garrett, the estimable daughter of the owner, is intended to ply on the route from Kingston to Ottawa, once a week, and from Ottawa to Kingston twice a week. We congratulate Capt. Grant on the result of his pluck and enterprise, and hope that his new venture will prove financially and otherwise a complete success.

N. T. & Q. RAILWAY.

A gang of men is employed in distributing telegraph poles along the line, so as to open up a good telegraph service for the road.

Trains are running with great regularity and the road is most courteous and attentive. The traffic exceeds all anticipations, and people are well pleased with the unexpected number of trips.

It is the intention of the company to start trains from Napavine at a later hour than at present and they will introduce one fare trips on Saturdays, an experiment in the right direction.

The opening up of the road has increased the rivalry between the different villages along the line.

DISTRICT.

There are 245 names on the Stirling voters list, and a Kingstone barber is giving hair cuts "three for a quarter."

There are at least four "fastest" boats on the St. Lawrence this season.

Some thousand cords of timber will be rafted at Belleville for Quebec.

West Hastings Agricultural Show will be held on the 5th and 9th of October.

The Grand Trunk railway station at Trenton is being remodelled and modernized.

Kingstone's public park is in a neglected condition, a state of affairs not creditable to the authorities.

A Kingstone dealer has shipped $15,000 worth of furs to the United States since the beginning of the season.

St. Mary's, aged 14, was drowned at Napavine on Thursday evening having fallen into the river at the swing-bridge.

James O'Brien, of Belleville, had a piee of his thumb cut off while inspecting the steam cruiser at Kingstone.

Kingstone defeated Napavine at base ball last week. W. A. McLeod, of Deseronto, making the heat's ore for Napavine.

Joseph Mercy, of Kingstone, was drowned by the upsetting of a skiff in which he and his father were making the trip from Clayton.

One Baptiste, a hand employed at Sutherland's mill, Belleville sustained a serious wound by a slab which was hurled from the saw.

A son of Capt. Bergrett, of the schr. Dales, fell down the hatch, while discharging cargo at Belleville and sustained serious injuries.

A new bell weighing 1,600 lbs is being rung in the R. C. Church, Napavine, Bishop Cleary will bless the bell in two weeks.

A boy named Rollins, aged eleven years, was killed last week in his uncle's farm near Milner, 10 miles from the hay fork which was assisting in wagoning.

In the severe thunder storm of Sunday evening, 3rd inst., the barn of Mr. Hugh Walker, of Belleville, was struck by lightning and a valuable property lost.

Burglars effected an entrance into three houses in Belleville last Saturday morning but in each case were disturbed and scared away with the result of no damage.

In a raw running wind last week, a pugnacious at a catalogue last week, an innocent bystander, named Crane, was seriously wounded by a shot from a revolver.

James Gilmore and other parties intend building a dam or otherwise improving the magnificent water power at Trenton. The question is now; will Trenton rise to its grand opportunity?

Cashmores in all shades at "The Big Store".

Prime Chicago Hams & Breakfast Bacon.

For its soothng and grateful influence on the scalp, and for the removal and prevention of dandruff, Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It restores faded or gray hair to its original dark color, stimulates the growth of the hair, and gives it a beautiful, soft, glossy and silken appearance.

Home Testimony.

Many hundred families throughout similar in character to the ones given below have been relieved, and given proof of the great value of Polson's Nervine as a pain remedy.

ATLANTIC, Feb. 20.—We hereby certify that we have sold to many hundred families, and have found it a most reliable remedy for cramps in the stomach, also for headache, and externally for rheumatic pains. No house should be without this invaluable remedy.—LUKE COLE. ELSIA COLE, J. P.

Buy a 10 cent sample bottle at Egar's drug store. Large bottles 25 cents, by all druggists.

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is too well known to require the specimen aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures are to-day living in every city and hamlet of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

The cabin is made of panel work both outside and in. There is a large dining room 22 ft. long and 12 ft. wide, with water and wash room attached. The staterooms are on the main deck and have been designed with a view to comfort as well as neatness.

The boiler, engine and machinery were constructed by the firm of Black Bros., of Brockville, and are of most substantial character.

The engine is 120 h.p. and 14 inch stroke, and she will be propelled by a wheel of a peculiar make—the "Clute" wheel manufactured in Schenectady; its size, 4 ft. 6 in.

She will attain a speed of fully 12 miles an hour. A careful inspection shows that the work has been done in a most painstaking and substantial manner, and too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Wm. Evans, the Superintendent of the Rathbun Company's yard for the careful and skillful work he has done.

He has so successfully lectured on the work in hand that he was zealously aided by a corps of able assistants.

The new steamer, which takes its name from Miss Ida Garrett, the estimable daughter of the owner, is intended to ply on the route from Kingston to Ottawa, once a week, and from Ottawa to Kingston twice a week. We congratulate Capt. Grant on the result of his pluck and enterprise, and hope that his new venture will prove financially and otherwise a complete success.

—

N. T. & Q. RAILWAY.

A gang of men is employed in distributing telegraph poles along the line, so as to open up a good telegraph service for the road.

Trains are running with great regularity and the road is most courteous and attentive.

The traffic exceeds all anticipations, and people are well pleased with the unexpected number of trips.

It is the intention of the company to start trains from Napavine at a later hour than at present and they will introduce one fare trips on Saturdays, an experiment in the right direction.

The opening up of the road has increased the rivalry between the different villages along the line.

—

DISTRICT.

There are 245 names on the Stirling voters list.

A Kingstone barber is giving hair cuts "three for a quarter!"

There are at least four "fastest" boats on the St. Lawrence this season.

Some thousand cords of timber will be rafted at Belleville for Quebec.

West Hastings Agricultural Show will be held on the 5th and 9th of October.

The Grand Trunk railway station at Trenton is being remodelled and modernized.

Kingstone's public park is in a neglected condition, a state of affairs not creditable to the authorities.

A Kingstone dealer has shipped $15,000 worth of furs to the United States since the beginning of the season.

St. Mary's, aged 14, was drowned at Napavine on Thursday evening having fallen into the river at the swing-bridge.

James O'Brien, of Belleville, had a piee of his thumb cut off while inspecting the steam cruiser at Kingstone.

Kingstone defeated Napavine at base ball last week. W. A. McLeod, of Deseronto, making the heat's ore for Napavine.

Joseph Mercy, of Kingstone, was drowned by the upsetting of a skiff in which he and his father were making the trip from Clayton.

One Baptiste, a hand employed at Suterland's mill, Belleville sustained a serious wound by a slab which was hurled from the saw.

A son of Capt. Bergrett, of the schr. Dales, fell down the hatch, while discharging cargo at Belleville and sustained serious injuries.

A new bell weighing 1,600 lbs is being run in the R. C. Church, Napavine, Bishop Cleary will bless the bell in two weeks.

A boy named Rollins, aged eleven years, was killed last week in his uncle's farm near Milner, 10 miles from the hay fork which was assisting in wagoning.

In the severe thunder storm of Sunday evening, 3rd inst., the barn of Mr. Hugh Walker, of Belleville, was struck by lightning and a valuable property lost.

Burglars effected an entrance into three houses in Belleville last Saturday morning but in each case were disturbed and scared away with the result of no damage.

A new costume at a catalogue last week, an innocent bystander, named Crane, was wounded by a shot from a revolver.

James Gilmore and other parties intend building a dam or otherwise improving the magnificent water power at Trenton. The question is now; will Trenton rise to its grand opportunity?

—

Cashmores in all shades at "The Big Store".

Prime Chicago Hams & Breakfast Bacon.

For its soothng and grateful influence on the scalp, and for the removal and prevention of dandruff, Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It restores faded or gray hair to its original dark color, stimulates the growth of the hair, and gives it a beautiful, soft, glossy and silken appearance.

Home Testimony.

Many hundred families throughout similar in character to the ones given below have been relieved, and given proof of the great value of Polson's Nervine as a pain remedy.

—

ATLANTIC, Feb. 20.—We hereby certify that we have sold to many hundred families, and have found it a most reliable remedy for cramps in the stomach, also for headache, and externally for rheumatic pains. No house should be without this invaluable remedy.—LUKE COLE. ELSIA COLE, J. P.

Buy a 10 cent sample bottle at Egar's drug store. Large bottles 25 cents, by all druggists.

—

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain

to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress

Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is too well known to require the specimen

aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures

are to-day living in every city and hamlet

of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

—

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain

to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress

Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is too well known to require the specimen

aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures

are to-day living in every city and hamlet

of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

—

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain

to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress

Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is too well known to require the specimen

aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures

are to-day living in every city and hamlet

of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

—

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain

to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress

Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is too well known to require the specimen

aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures

are to-day living in every city and hamlet

of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

—

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain

to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress

Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is too well known to require the specimen

aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures

are to-day living in every city and hamlet

of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

—

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain

to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress

Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is too well known to require the specimen

aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures

are to-day living in every city and hamlet

of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

—

The new Costume Cloth-checks and Plain

to match at "The Big Store".

Something new in Crinolines & Dress

Improvers at "The Big Store".

The empative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is too well known to require the specimen

aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvellous cures

The Tribune.

VOL. I.

DESERONTO, ONT., THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1884.

NO. 48

THE TRIBUNE,

Published every Thursday Morning.

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO., (LIMITED),

Publishers and Proprietors.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—One copy, $1.00 per year; 50 cents per six months. Strictly in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES cheerfully made known on application. Favorable contract rates for large or continued advertising.

All communications should be addressed to

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO., (LIMITED),

Deseronto, Ont.

PUBLIC DIRECTORY.

COAL.

FOR HOUSE USE OR BLACKSMITH SHOPS, AT lowest market rates. Write for prices.

THE RATHBUN CO.

SALT.

BY CAR LOAD, BARREL, OR IN BULK, AMERICAN, or Canadian, at lowest market rates. Write for prices.

THE RATHBUN CO.

LAND PLASTER.

WATER LINE, PORTLAND CEMENT, AND PLASTER Paris for sale, cheap, and full directions given how to use successfully. Write for prices.

THE RATHBUN CO.

NOTICE.

INSURANCE ON FARM OR VILLAGE PROPERTY AT low rates for all classes—Properties—the Royal Insurance Company and Commercial Union of England, Western, and British American of Toronto.

THE RATHBUN CO., Agents.

KINDLING WOOD.

FARMERS TAKE ONE CORD GOOD SOFT WOOD TO Deseronto Saw Mill and exchange for two cords of Pine Edgings done up in bundles. They will help make the necessary exchange.

ALEX. MCGAUGHEY, Agent.

THE DESERONTO HOUSE.

THE HOUSE HAVING RECENTLY HAD MANY REPAIRS, is in excellent condition and suitable public patronage. Terms moderate. Convenient Sample Rooms for commercial travellers. First-class Bar and Livery in connection.

GEO. STEWART, Prop., Deseronto, Ont.

O'CONNOR HOUSE.

THE HOTEL IS ELEGANTLY FURNISHED throughout, in the latest styles. Large and convenient Sample Rooms; and every accommodation and comfort for guests. The house is supplied with best quality Domestic Lepors and Cigars. Charges moderate. First-class Lavery in connection. Good Yard and Stables attached.

O'CONNOR, Prop., Deseronto, Ont.

The Windsor Hotel,

PRINCESS AND MORTIMER STS., KINGSTON, Ontario, Canada. First-class in every respect. E. R. Smith, Chief Clerk.

MARTIN O'BRIEN, Proprietor.

MARRIAGE LICENCES.

T. G. PILE, ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENCES, Deseronto, Ont.

J. ROBINSON,

PAINTER, GLAZIER, PAPER HANGER, GRAIN-Colorer, etc., etc., Deseronto, Ont. Kaloenging all orders in our line, great or small, promptly, efficiently and as cheaply as to do justice. Orders should be left at THE TRUNK OFFICE.

26-2

HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE, ON reasonable terms, a fine new House and Lot, in the village of Deseronto, situated on the North side of Thomas St. For further particulars apply to R. B. Brown, Deseronto.

HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE, ON easy and favorable terms, a fine new House and Lot in the village of Deseronto. This fine property is conveniently located a short distance from the Post Office walk of the post-office and business centre. Apply to T. N. Carter, Deseronto.

26-2

JAMES R. BOOTH,

BUILDER AND CONTRACTOR, is ready to attend all orders in Mason work, Brick work, Stone work, Plastering, Etc. Parties desiring any work, whatever it may be, will find their orders attended to with promptitude. Address J. R. B. Booth, Deseronto.

CHOICE LAND PLASTER IN SACKS, C 250 lbs for $1.00. Every Farmer should use it.

THE RATHBUN CO.Y.

MCKELVEY & BIRCH,

TINSMITHS, PLUMBERS, STEAM AND GAS FITTERS,

Dealers in Stoves and House Furnishing Hardware, Hot Water and Steam Heating a specialty.

72 BLOOR STREET,

KINGSTON,

ONT.

DESERONTO

Carriage and Wagon hop.

The subscriber wishes to inform the inhabitants of Deseronto and vicinity that he has started a Carriage and Wagon Shop over Wm. Mellow's blacksmith shop, and is prepared to keep to hand and make to order all kinds of at reasonable prices. Repairing on the shortest notice, and no expense, and personal attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage.

Buggies, Wagons, Sleighs, Cotters, Etc.,

ARTHUR CARTER.

W. B. GRAHAM,
House Sign and Decorative Painter.

Graining, Glazing, Paper-hanging, Kalsomining, Tinting, Etc.

All orders executed with promptitude and at very moderate prices.

Orders may be left at T. N. CARTER'S,

Main St., Deseronto. 26-

All communications should be addressed to

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO., (LIMITED),

Deseronto, Ont.

DESERONTO
NAVIGATION COMPANY
(LIMITED).

Until further notice the following steamers of the above company will run as follows:

Str. DESERONTO.

Leave Napanee 6:00 A.M., Leave Picton 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:30 P.M.

The steamer makes one extra trip between Picton and Deseronto.

Leave Picton 9:30 A.M., Leaves Deseronto 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 11:30 A.M., Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Str. PILGRIM.

Leave Napanee 6:00 A.M., Leave Trenton 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 7:00 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:30 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Str. QUINTE.

Leave Picton 6:00 A.M., Leave Trenton 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 7:00 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:30 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

Arrive Picton 2:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 1:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 3:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 2:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 4:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 3:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 5:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 4:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 6:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 5:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 6:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 8:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 9:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 8:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 10:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 9:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 11:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 10:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 12:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 11:00 P.M.

Arrive Picton 1:30 A.M., Arrive Napanee 12:00 M.

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1884.

The Province of Upper Egypt, in which so much interest is taken at present, in consequence of the Malib's ambitious designs and the military expedition which England is compelled to despatch up the Nile for the relief of General Gordon, may be described as a thin ribbon of cultivation on either side of 720 miles of the river, the ribbon gradually tapering as it goes south. The average breadth of Egypt above Cairo is under four miles and the greatest breadth does not exceed nine miles. One-third is a strip of 210 miles, averaging a furlong in breadth along each bank of the Nile. This strip owes its value to the annual overflow of the Father of Waters which leaves behind a deposit of fertilizing material. A correspondent of the London Times gives some useful information concerning the people and the method of taxation. It is unnecessary to say that the taxes are heavy. He gives an instance of a sheikh who cultivates a farm of forty acres which is valued at £250 and on which he finds work and livelihood for twenty-seven persons in all. His taxes come to about £50 and he expects to clear this year after all his expenses are paid the splendid sum of £7. It will be seen therefore that the taxation is enormous and that the people of Egypt have great grievances. The fellahs are exposed to many ill-gal exactions at the hands of officials and the first duty of England will be to introduce some system by which protection will be afforded to this unfortunate class. It is thought that the introduction of a more complete and extensive system of irrigation would also add very materially to the value of property and effect a marked increase in revenue.

Independent Order of Foresters.

At the Supreme Court of the Order of Foresters and the High Court of Ontario both met in Kingston this week. An invitation was taken of that fact to request the members of the executive council to visit Deseronto. The invitation was gladly accepted and a public meeting held last Saturday evening in the interest of the Order. The hall was crowded to overflowing, but the sickly, oppressive heat of the room was intolerable and large numbers were very reluctantly compelled to withdraw at different stages of the meeting. Chief Samson was present, and after a few opening remarks called on a man to step forward and an opening one, after which Mr. J. B. Hallett, S. V. C. R., made a few remarks, excusing himself on account of the intense heat. Misses Anderson and Barnhart then sang a solo, followed by Mr. E. S. Canner, S. Sec., who delivered a short address, expressing the pleasure afforded him by the visit to Deseronto Court whom he congratulated on its marked progress which indicated the probability of its becoming one of the most important Orders. He, in turn, was followed by J. A. McTavish, P. H. C. R., of Uxbridge, who remarked that he had made up his mind on his arrival that this was a community of working men and Forestry was emphatically the order for working men. Mr. L. L. Ladd, of Ladd & Company, were the principals of the order. He then contrasted the insurance system of Forestry with that of stock companies, most unfavorably to the latter, whose charges he maintained were excessive, one-half of the money being expended on salaries of officials and a host of clerical and office attendants to the stockholders. This he illustrated by interesting figures from reports of Prof. Cheriman, Inspector of Insurance. The stock company had only two salaried officers, whose combined salaries were only $1200, and no dividends on stock and no dividends to pay. Membership in the Order secured free medical attendance; $5.00 per week sick benefit; $50.00 funeral benefit; $100 to $5000 after passing the last day; $500, $1,000 or $1,500 total disability; $1,000, $2,000 or $3,000 paid at death. Two cents a day would secure these benefits. No wonder then that insurance agents so bitterly opposed the order. He closed an eloquent speech with an earnest call to all and others to work for such a benevolent organization. Mr. Thos. Mallory then rendered a solo, and Mr. Botterell, P. S. C. R., made a short speech. Dr. Oronhyatekha, S. C. R., was then introduced and chairmaned. The Dr. is an effective and ready speaker and he gave much valuable information concerning the order and its steady and rapid progress. He showed that it was a purely benevolent organization open to all creeds and classes. In Canada, $100,000 had been paid in claims and that too in every case. The assertion that he received a salary was without foundation, he did not receive one cent. He congratulated the Deseronto Court on its growth in members which he hoped to see double in a very short period. The chairman in a few closing remarks expressed the hope that after what had been said many would see the necessity of joining the Court. The audience then sang the National Anthem and the people dispersed. The meeting cannot be said to have decided impetus to the cause of Forestry in Deseronto.

THE BANQUET.

The members of the Executive Council were subsequently entertained by Deseronto Court by a supper at the Deseronto House,

In addition to the members of the order, there were a number of invited guests. There was an elegant dinner service, the table graced under its load of delicacies which had been arranged with rare neatness and good effect. After doing more than ample justice to the excellent fare, the following toasts were proposed:

"The Queen" — "God Save the Queen" and "All Foresters — their wives, daughters and sons." Mr. McKey, V. C. Esq., responded in a forcible speech in which he welcomed the distinguished visitors, and outside friends. He hoped that the next visit of the Executive Council would find a meeting-house in Deseronto of 135 feet by 30 feet, as at present. The building fairly walled down the house as it had sat.

"The Supreme Officers" — Dr. Oronhyatekha responded that for the next visit of the Executive Council the room was to be enlarged, and afterwards entered into an explanation of several interesting episodes in the past history of the I. O. F.

The other members of the Executive also replied giving brief and forcible speeches.

"The Medical Professor" — Dr. Clinton, medical examiner for Deseronto, responded bearing testimony to the right character of the examination insisted on which was fully as exhaustive as that in stock company "The Press" — A TRIBUNE representative replied.

"Our Host and Hostess" — This toast was drunk with great enthusiasm. As the hour was growing late, "Auld Lang Syne" was sang with great effect, and the company dispersed, having enjoyed an hour or two very pleasantly.

Do not forget to see Eggar's good Silver Rings. Ladies & gents best plated chains at cost.

Don't fill the system with quinine in the effort to prevent or cure Fever and Ague. Aye's Ague Cure is a far more potent preventive and remedy, with the advantage of leaving in the body no poisons to produce dizziness, deafness, headache, and other disorders. The proprietors warrant it.

BIRTHS.

ROACH. — At Deseronto, on the 18th inst., the wife of Mr. Thos. Roush, Jr., of a daughter.

NOTICE TO BUILDERS.

TENDERS FOR THE REPAIRING OF THE Indian Council House on the Tyendinaga Reserve will be received by the under Signed up to Saturday the 30th August, 1884 for the repair of the roof, windows, doors and specification of work may be seen at Indian office on the Reserve. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. The work must be completed by the 1st November, 1884. MATTHEW HILL, Indian agent, Shanonville P. O. Council House, Aug 12, 1884.

LARDINE MACHINE OILS

Have no equal.

MANUFACTURED SOLELY BY

MCOLL BROS. & CO.,
TORONTO, - ONT.

Ask your merchant for Lardine, 1-1.

THE EQUITABLE Life Assurance Company, OF THE UNITED STATES.

HENRY B. HYDE, President.

ASSETS.		£ 55,000,381 70
Surplus,		12,109,754 79
New assurance written in 1883,		81,129,756 00
Less premium		1,804,178 88
Increase of assets		1,451,082 84
Increase of Surplus		10,722,547 00
Interest, rent, etc.	2,743,025 72
Total Income		13,470,571 08

DISBURSEMENTS

£ 55,000,381 70
Claims by death & matured endowments	£ 3,410,614 97
Dividends, surrender & Premiums	2,006,999 94
Interest, rent, etc.	143,455 75

Total paid and disbursed in 1883. — £ 5,570,66

The amount of new assurance written during 1882 exceeded the largest business ever transacted by any other company in one year: the business of 1883 is other than that which the Society has written in the past twenty years than any other company in the same period, and is the largest in the history of the organization of the Society. 873,877,499 51. The amount of Surplus over liabilities (four per cent. com-) position) is now $1,000,000,000, which is more than all Pollock as soon as they become contestable are paid off, and without the cost of satisfactory proofs of death, and without the cost of ninety days, usual with other companies. The Society has no contested proofs.

W. J. SMYTH, Manager for the Province of Ontario,

S. G. CANNON, A. G. S. of Agencies,

2 & York Church, Toronto.

B. H. BENNETT, Cashier.

THE RATHBURN COMPANY,

Agents, Deseronto.

24-L

DOMINION BUSINESS COLLEGE KINGSTON.

Experienced Teachers! Practical Work!

Educate Young Men & Women for Business

COURSE EMBRACES

Book-keeping, Short-Hand, Banking, Commercial Law, Business Arithmetic, Telegraphy, Business Correspondence.

Actual Business Practice.

Practical Penmanship a Specialty.

This College will be open on Monday, Sept. 1st, 1884, with the most improved facilities for imparting a thorough knowledge of business affairs and including a complete BUSINESS EDUCATION.

The course is a short, sharp, direct and thorough drill in business, and is designed to fit the student for business life. The College Calendar contains all necessary information as to rates of tuition course of study, etc., will be mailed on application.

F. B. MCKAY, Principal.

ISAAC WOOD, Vice-Principal.

120 King Street, Kingston, Ontario.

Telephone, 120. Telegraph, 120.

Post Office, 120. Cable Address, DOMINION COLLEGE.

Rooms, $10.00 per month.

Board, $12.00 per month.

Books, $1.00 per month.

Supplies, $1.00 per month.

Stationery, $1.00 per month.

Leisure, $1.00 per month.

Entertainment, $1.00 per month.

Leisure, $1.00 per month.

AMERICAN CANOE ASSOCIATION.

From our own Correspondent.
Most of our camp had special business at Round Island last Friday evening. Wives and sweethearts had arrived. The lawyer, the minstrel, and the professor kept the camp. When morning dawned, and the cook called for his bacon, he answered his name in a mournful tone through the night all had returned on the fast flying Shearwater. No doubt the evening at Round Island had been enjoyed. It was difficult to leave, and the first attempt of the Commodores proved a failure. On the piano the girls had the sinuous sailing, and rushing down leaps on the stern of the boat as she left the dock. When he got his bearings he found that he was sailing to Clayton instead of to camp, instead of the St. Lawrence, and his sweethearts were seated. Luckily she was returning in ten minutes, and the apprehensions of the rest at his sudden departure were set at rest.

As two of the camp had gone towards

Thousand Islands the next day, they were hailed by a steam launch flying the Rochester Standard. Getting aboard, they were cordially received by Mrs. Duran and ladies of that city. A rapid run down the river for two hours, and then the Westminster Park, a glimpse at Fairy Land, a peep into Summer Land, an hour's troll, with six pickerel as compensation, a dinner in the woods to the music of the rippling waters and whispering leaves. A run to the American Channel past Alexandria Bay and Well's Island, where lay our old friends the Quibbles and Varuna, with a greeting from the nimble Hero, and a stop at Round Island Hotel. The Rock, from which we had to leave the trim Génieuse, and her hospitable comrade and ladies. Yet with a promise to come another day, they sailed on to Clayton, while their guests directed their steps to Shady Lodge, which from cellar to attic was thrown open to receive the Association and lady friends. Miss Taylor, well-known as an Artist-traveller, and popular with the Association for his proved qualities of a friend, a patron, a veteran camp, and host, who his gentle partner was having fun in company with the delightful programme of music, fire-works, and bon fires and sparkling refreshments. We were glad to see Deseronto Camp all present, save one poor fellow who lost his way, and was unable to return home. Also we were greatly interested by the semi-members of The Rathbone Company, who with lady and daughter contributed not a little to the enjoyment of the evening. Ten o'clock struck, and we were yet four miles from Camp, when we saw that our canoe had gone. We were the guests of the Constance in her. They hoisted the Constance, another swift launch, and while they waited for their comrades who had to paddle home, they enjoyed the music of the boats' company, and the pleasure of good living to camp. There the boat was found. He had been challenged by our cook as an intruder, but on proving his membership by the enormous quantity of provisions stowed away at tea, was invited to draw out his canoe.

PICTON.

Fishing in West Lake is better this year than usual, it being nothing uncommon for a sportsman to find a four-pound bass on his hook.

The have been five vessel loads of coal received here during the past week and more to come in soon. No freeze out for Picton next winter if the cash only holds out.

The schooner Rainbow left the 18th with a cargo of pressed straw for the American market. Mr. Lawless is pressing in the vicinity of Picton last year's straw for shipment to the States.

Picnics and excursions are the order of the day. The Picton band has an excursion to Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 29th, and for the round trip only $1.50. Should the weather get a little cooler the boys will have a good turnout.

C. McDonald not long since bought out his partner's interest in his business and associated his son with him. Now his former partner, Mr. Kalla, buys them out and becomes sole proprietor, taking possession immediately.

John Valer, coming this week end of town, found in the cell of the County jail.

By the continued use of opium he became crazed and tried to kill his wife and destroy his household effects. Dr. Morden attends him daily since his incarceration.

The Picton Band took part in the Belleville Fair, July 21st, and 22d, and some fine playing concentering the number in the band. There is to be a band also in attendance on the Watertown excursion for the benefit of those wishing to take part in the many dances.

Slowly Peter and Jan. Soly attended the Rochester races last week and were well pleased with their trip. The Canadian mare, Phyllis, won first money in the 2.7 class, the first race won by her this season. She is owned by Chas. Wagner of Dickens' Landing and is the fastest trotter in Canada.

GREEN POINT.

From our own Correspondent.

Mrs. Dolon of Auburn, N. Y., is visiting her brother, Mr. H. Van Allen.

Mrs. Norris, of Oswego, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. A. Potter.

Miss Amelia Potter has returned home with Mrs. Norris to spend the winter.

Miss Scott, of Oswego, has spent a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. D. B. Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. John Curlett spent last week in Belleville with their son and Dr. Curlett.

Mr. Jacob Short is quite feeble; he has reached the advanced age of ninety-seven years.

Miss Cole, who looks very well after her six weeks vacation, opened her school on Monday.

The potato rot is again making its appearance.

On Thursday evening last, the congregation of Mt. Carmel Church purchased a fine organ. Mr. H. Thorp Carman left on Monday for Chicago where he will spend a month with a sister. He will return to Picton in a week, when he will take in the Toronto Fair, Niagara Falls, and all other sights worth seeing. We extend our best wishes for a safe and pleasant trip, of which we hope he will give a full report on his return.

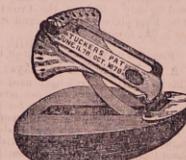

Is coming to push business in a few days.

ESTABLISHED 1873
Apothecaries Hall.

A full and complete line of

Drugs and Chemicals,
Toilet articles, Brushes,
Combs, Perfumes,
Patent Medicines
of all kinds,
Trusses and Supporters.

School Books,
Wall Paper
Stationery.

Office of Dr. Newton.

W. Geo. EGAR,

Main Street, Deseronto.

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal disease. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty year's fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed many sleepless nights. I consulted several physicians, who gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and soon restored me to health. I now use it for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL, a permanent cure of the disease is secured. I am now a strong, hale and hearty man, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved my life."

HOME FAIRBROTHERS,
Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Group - A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It was a severe case, and required constant attention. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was given me. I used it with great success. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and the child soon recovered. I am now an old, little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my boy's life. I am sure you would wonder at our gratitude? Surely yours, 159 West 12th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to say that it is the best and most reliable remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried."

A. J. CRANE,
Largo Crystal, Minn., March 10, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. I am now in full health."

Dylania, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing in its doing power. I have never been sick since I have been using it."

E. BRADDOON,
Palermo, April 22, 1882.

"No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine."

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

Cheap Groceries !!
Cheap Groceries !!

AT THE
INDIAN STORE

Just arrived a fresh lot of Groceries which we are selling at the following very low prices.

12 lbs. Granulated Sugar $1.00.
14 lbs. Very Bright Sugar $1.00.
15 lbs. Bright Sugar $1.00.
16 lbs. Bright Sugar $1.00.
17 lbs. Good Sugar $1.00.
Other lines will be found equally as cheap.

Don't fail to give us a call and be convinced that you can save 25 cents on the dollar by buying your goods at the

INDIAN STORE.
WATSON KIRK.

JUST OPENED,
12 CASES LAMP CHIMNEYS,

All sizes and shapes—plain and fancy. Salamander Flint Chimneys.

FIVE CASES OF THE FOLLOWING:-

Decorated Shades, Opal Shades,
Paper Shades, Shade Rings, Etc.
Bracket Lamps, Hanging Lamps,
Library Lamps, Chandeliers,
Illuminators, Etc., Etc.

Lamp Burners—all kinds and sizes. Genuine American Head Light Coal Oil, Water White A 1 Canadian Coal Oil, Stoves, Tinware, House Furnishings, Etc.; for Quality and Cheapness cannot be beat.

D. R. MCRAE.

Practical Tinsmith, Plumber, Steam & Gas Fitter.

THE BIG STORE!

Having cleared out most of our Stock since the recent fire in our Store, we are now daily receiving New Goods, in every department, and as we turn over large quantities and pay cash, we are enabled to buy at very low prices.

We are now placing before our Customers a large range of Fresh, New and Fashionable Goods, well worth the attention of all purchasers. Prices are as low as the same class of Goods can be bought in Canada.

We would direct special attention to our stock of

All Wool Nuns Veiling, in all the new Shades.
All Wool Soudan Serges in all the new Shades.
All Wool Cashmeres in all the new Shades.

We would direct special attention to our stock of

Sheetings, Shirtings, Tickings,
Hemp, Kidderminster, and Tapestry Carpets, Oilcloths, and Linecloths.

IN THE TAILORING DEPARTMENT

We shall maintain our pre-eminence by selling only reliable Goods, manufactured in the newest and most improved styles.

Our stock of Boots and Shoes is second to none in Ontario. We are selling Ladies' Button Kid Top Boots, from $1.25. Lace from $1.00. Boots and Shoes ordered especially for those who are hard to fit.

In the Grocery and Provision Department

Will be found the best selected stock between Montreal and Toronto, comprising all the best goods to be obtained in the home and foreign markets. We are offering another lot of Layer Raisins, splendid quality, at $1.25 a box—worth $2.25.

The Big Store is Head Quarters for Salt in Bbls. and 56lb. Sacks for Dairy Purposes.

A complete stock of Hardware, Crockery and Glassware, Window Glass, Paints and Oil, etc., always on hand. Prices reasonable.

Our Motto is to buy only reliable Goods, and to sell them at the lowest possible price, believing that shoddy, trashy goods are dear at any price.

We shall be glad to show our goods, and quote prices to those who will favor us with a call.

A. A. RICHARDSON,
Main street, Deseronto.
Manager.

BETWEEN TWO STOOLS

CHAPTER I.

"I have something to tell you, Mary." Mary Ranley let her work fall into her lap, and looked up at the speaker. She was a girl of about eighteen, of seven or eight and twenty, with a plain, patient face and winsome eyes. She had not a single claim in feature or coloring, to any of the acknowledged forms of prettiness, and yet something about her would have commanded a second glance from those who had obtained a first.

"Well, Tom, what is it?" Her face set again, and she laid her work on Danvers' hands, her eyes, for a instant, on Tom, whom people spoke only of praise. They had been playfellowes, those two, who were alike only in years. They were very fond of each other, and had a wife and one child; at least that hope had beautified existence for both of them during seven years. Seven years! It is a big slice out of the best part of the allotted threescore and ten, although it was only lately that one of this fatidical pair began to think so. The other had never thought it yet.

"What is it you have to tell me?" Tom crossed the room, and bent over her to stroke her hair. The movement was caressing, and then it enabled him to avoid her eyes.

"I have been offered an app intment at Rangoon."

"At Rangoon?" She echoed the words, without any intonation of surprise. "That is—

"In Burmah. As if you did not know that and everything else, my little school; Rangoon is a big place, and open to all for love and gain. There has been written saying he needs a partner, and so I think if you don't mind, that I shall go out there in a month or two."

Mary Ranley did not answer. In the silence that followed she heard the purring of the cat on the hearth, and smelled the faint odor of the mosquito to growling in the window box. She knew quite well that the linnets outside were piping to the roses and that Tom's father had waited for her, as he was, but she also knew that the pulses were growing fainter and fainter, and that the weight of a long brooded bough had fallen.

"Are you not getting here?" she asked after a pause. "I thought you told me that your work was increasing; though I expected that we might marry in the Spring."

"It was all a mistake, due to my confounded hopelessness. I got a new case or two, and when he would come to my door day by day, he holds the petition, and asks for a place to hold them. The fact is, Mary, there is not a cope here for two medical men, and I new that, though I settled in the place when you wished it. But I have not made a single friend in the past two months and you know that means failure."

"At I make a good mark by my teaching and I thought that, working together, we might get on."

"That is quite out of the question," he said, breathlessly, turning away from the pleading eyes of the girl. "I am going to have my wife during all day long that we may not starve. I'll support her myself, on without her."

The pale hands lying on the piece of needlework paled each other a little, then the sweet voice spoke softly and firmly.

"I have been thinking, Tom, that you would be ready to do without me. You see we have known each other for so long that we have really grown to be more friends than lovers, and I am far older than you in reality, though not perhaps in years, and I can understand the feelings that our engagement has had a mistake."

"Oh, you do, do you?" wrathfully.

"You see it has lasted seven years now, and in seven years, you know, your science teaches that we change completely, and so I think that you will be ready to be a far better if you planned your future without letting any thought of me hamper you. I am safe enough, though the high school pays me a comfortable salary, and I have grown accustomed to the routine of life with Mary. I can see, dear, that I quite easily offer to give up all that I was twenty years older than she had been, and as if life had suddenly become quite humdrum and commonplace. Yet she had no thought of changing her mind. She runs the school for me, and for Bessie, too, though she is not quite so good as I am. She is very fair and manly. She almost started to find she was considering it, that opposing counsel seemed to be arguing the pros and cons, with herself for judge and jury.

On one side were the reasons of pleasure, on the other sides was a hand held loosely holding only the memory of a disappointment. She was not a heroine, and teaching for her bread during a whole lifetime seemed sad and lonely enough.

She then would not argue with an older man, she was almost unwilling to let him know that they had planned together? Why their whole future had been mapped out with each other, and union with John Haywood would be but a dreary deception.

Her letter was written, hurriedly, at last, and when it was finished it was an acceptance. But she told John Haywood truthfully, that she had not thought any memory of him would ever rise up between her and the husband she was prepared to accept and honor. She wrote this all quite easily, as though it were something as though she were twenty years older than she had been, and as if life had suddenly become quite humdrum and commonplace. Yet she had no thought of changing her mind. She runs the school for me, and for Bessie, too, though she is not quite so good as I am. She is very fair and manly. She almost started to find she was considering it, that opposing counsel seemed to be arguing the pros and cons, with herself for judge and jury.

"Come in, Tom, I am glad to see you; I am safe enough, though the high school pays me a comfortable salary, and I have grown accustomed to the routine of life with Mary. I can see, dear, that I quite easily offer to give up all that I was twenty years older than she had been, and as if life had suddenly become quite humdrum and commonplace. Yet she had no thought of changing her mind. She runs the school for me, and for Bessie, too, though she is not quite so good as I am. She is very fair and manly. She almost started to find she was considering it, that opposing counsel seemed to be arguing the pros and cons, with herself for judge and jury.

"Graham has been worse lately—worse and more fretful, and so I feel I could not leave her without a special errand."

"But she is better to day."

"Oh, you are to much better, and then she will come to pay her a little visit, so I let Granis and her, and ran over to see you."

"That was very good of you, my dear."

"Oh, no, it was not; I came on business," Mounts laughed and flushed a little, then she turned to the window, and the pale person she addressed to me yesterday, but it is evidently meant for me. It is from that boy, John Haywood; he is always in the clouds, or among the cog wheels of his looms, and so there is a blunder. She unfolded the sheet as the gecko does, and then she was in Mary's room, and that stood before the latter's astonished eyes.

MISS RANLEY.—In the pleasant excursion we had together last summer I remember your mentioning a book on ferns that you desired to have, but could not get as far as the title page. I have just come across a copy in the library of Teasdale stone, the opening chapter of which is on the Osmunda regalis. If you think this is the work in question I shall be happy to forward it to you. Sincerely yours,

JOHN HAYWARD.

Mary Ranley was sure some complex machinery in her head had got out of order, and lost and perverted was the whirling in her brain.

When she spoke at last her voice sounded faint and far away.

"Is your name Mary?"

"Of course it is, dear Mary Ann, but every one calls me Mouse except John Haywood. He thought Mouse no name for a girl, and so he always called me Mary—Mary, Mary."

"John, dear Mary, I have an offer of marriage for you to consider, to me, and naturally enough, I took it to myself."

Mary was so flattered that she did not notice her friend's perturbation.

"I fancied she said, holding the letter in her hand, and looking at it, that he must have been writing to me and had mixed the covers. That is so like your very clever people! But how lucky the latter came in an engaged girl!"

"I don't care for her, to me, and for that reason, I took his hat and then the tender heart in her failed."

"Oh, Tom, if it were not best for you, do you think I could be a failure?"

She wanted him to tell her that it was not best for him; she wanted him to prove to her that all her doubts were needless, but she had hurt him, and at her relenting he had.

"It is best for you, that is enough," he said, and took his hat and left her without looking her again.

When the door had closed behind him Mary Ranley sat for five minutes motionless. The air inside had been for seven years blowing was shattered by her sudden entry. She scarcely realized what had happened yet, but there was a numb aching at her heart, far worse than any keen, comprehending pang. Tom was gone, and Tom was the lover of her whole life; but—and in this capacity she was minded to do more—he had always been a fit and proper. What was another nature do more with any one to plan for or protect?

Would he write to her, she wondered, or would she be left alone with a pain of eight and twenty, with a plain, patient face and winsome eyes. She had not a single claim in feature or coloring, to any of the acknowledged forms of prettiness, and yet something about her would have commanded a second glance from those who had obtained a first.

"Well, Tom, what is it?" Her face set again, and she laid her work on Danvers' hands, her eyes, for a instant, on Tom, whom people spoke only of praise. They had been playfellowes, those two, who were alike only in years. They were very fond of each other, and had a wife and one child; at least that hope had beautified existence for both of them during seven years. Seven years! It is a big slice out of the best part of the allotted threescore and ten, although it was only lately that one of this fatidical pair began to think so. The other had never thought it yet.

"The other had never thought it yet."

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"And why is it too late?"

"Because I have promised to marry another."

"You have! Well, certainly, you have not lost any time."

"She could have laughed with the dreariness of a matinal mirth. She was so contemptible in her own eyes; all she had done was done in a strange and unsmiling and forlorn way.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with you to Rangoon if I could; but it is all so easy now, when it is too late," she answered with a break in her voice.

"She had stopped, and they faced each other, and he saw now how pale she was.

"I would go with

FOREIGN NEWS.

Education in France—Skobeloff on the Eastern Question—The Spanish Navy—Boiling Tears—The Chebra Germ—&c., &c.

Since the organization of Mr. Spurgeon's Stockwell orphanage 924 fatherless children have been sheltered and cared for. The number of boys in residence last year was 237, and of girls 200. The principal feature of the change is a system of cottage homes, each home containing its own matron under the direction of its matron.

A portion of the tunnel being excavated in Glasgow for an underground railway recently fell in. The eighteen men who had been working were on the surface at the time of the accident. The chief engineer and a foreman who was late that day, else the men would have been in the tunnel at the time of the accident.

The bedroom in Windsor castle was recently stolen a valuable gold watch and a silver chain and medal. Suspicion fell upon two privates of the Coldstream guards, who had been mounted upon the terrace near the room. Nothing was found upon the men, but near the tower where they were stationed a bell was discovered concealed in the ivy.

At Wrexham, in Wales, a few weeks ago, one of the attendants at a menagerie, while cleaning out the cage of the lions, placed his right hand upon the lion's head. The animal suddenly tore it off at the elbow. During the panic which ensued a number of persons were more or less seriously injured, a report having been started that the lion had escaped from its cage.

A revenue officer in the match-making industry is to be expected in the Romanian department of commerce and manufacturers has recently awarded a patent to the inventor of a means for impregnating wood with a liquid that, when dried, it lights with a slight crack and can be used several times over; these matches are to be sold at a lower rate, an economy of at least 75 per cent.

In the early months of the present session of parliament sixty-five measures were introduced by the government. Thirteen of them have since been withdrawn, and only sixteen have as yet received royal assent. Five of these have passed the chamber, including the franchise bill. Of the remaining thirty-one, twelve are in the committee stage and thirteen still await a second reading.

During the recent heavy rainfall in Poland and Galicia whole districts were completely flooded, hundreds of families losing their homes. The total amount of damage in value of the hay washed away was $60,000; at another it was $30,000, and in a third $10,000. No fewer than a hundred villages have been ruined. Old inhabitants say nothing equal to the devastation has occurred since 1813.

Spanish sailors having been included by Spain in the recent order to enforce quarantine on all English arrivals, the authorities at Gibraltar, by way of reprisals, have expelled from within the lines all Spaniards who did not possess annual licenses. The number thus expelled is variously estimated at from 4,000 to 6,000. They are principally laborers, and nearly all of them are in a destitute condition.

Pollution in Romania are in a state of considerable confusion. The conservatives have secured the support of students, and a part of their program comprises a scheme for detaching King Charles and his son from the seat of government. The liberals, on the other hand, are in a state of disarray. A correspondent who disbelieved this story at first has had his truth confirmed to his satisfaction by overtures made by the conspirators to intimate friends of his.

Mr. John Sullivan, editor of The Jersey Observer, has received a translation from her mother tongue into the Norman language and to publish her work "Miracles from the Journal of Our Life in the Highlands." In her letter signifying the royal pleasure to this effect, the queen's private secretary said, "I think it will be a source of great satisfaction to your majesty to find an interest shown in the Channel Islands in regard to her little work."

The Societe Hippique in Paris, which undertakes to look to the well-being of horses, has adopted among its reforms on the off of its horses the stable-stands, and in this country it has placed a number of booths and sponges at the public houses in all the chief thoroughfares. The innkeepers consider this a wise measure, for they find that they can profitably entertain the teamsters while the horses are quenching their thirst.

The porto is preparing to take a bold step. It is to be the first port in Europe to receive August 1st, when it will be the first day of the month, the world's first permanent post office. It will place sentinels at the foreign post office in the capital to prevent letters from being posted. It has also sent a circular to its representatives at the European courts and announced its intention to get rid of the post office. The porto is the first to have the right to the European embassies to receive its letters by special couriers, and to disregard every other kind of foreign interference.

Commercial enterprise has taken a new direction in Italy. The Italian Society for the Commercial exploration of Africa has organized a circumnavigation of Africa, with a view to affording the pupils of the high school of commerce an opportunity of becoming acquainted with likely markets for Italian products. The steamer will leave Genoa on the 1st instant for months, and the tourists are to be accompanied by a professor to lecture on the commercial geography of Africa.

Brinckwick the supreme court of the duchy is charged with the case which was commenced in 1804 before the imperial court of Wetzlar. It was carried on for half a century, and was then left in abeyance till a comparatively recent period. It involves a claim set up by the counts of Solms against the counts of Hartz, the ducal principal domain for the restriction of the whole of the estates, forests, and mines in the county of Blankenberg (Hartz mountains), which are valued at nearly £1,000,000. The Duke of Brunswick is the real defendant.

The Scolo, newspaper of Milan, says that the cholera germ described by Dr. Koch was discovered by an Italian, Dr. Filippo Pacini as far back as thirty years ago. In a treatise on "Diseases and their Cures" in 1834 in the Journal of Medicine and translated into English in 1835, he is mentioned in the "Archives of Military Medicine of Brussels" in 1855, and into English in the "Report on the Cholera Epidemic of 1856."

he described the cholera as being due to the action of "a very simple organism which I shall call a cholera microbe." Dr. Pacini's treatise was published in 1865, and 1871, and 1879.

The old custom of boiling tears is still continued in Persia. It must be very old, as the mourner is often addressed as "the master of the ceremonies presents each one with a piece of cotton wool, with which he wipes off his tears. This cotton is afterwards squeezed into a bottle, and the tears preserved as a medicine, often sufficient to cure for reviving a dying man after even a man has failed. It is also employed as a charm against evil influences. The practice was introduced, it is said, by the tear-bearers which are found in almost every apartment.

The Spanish navy consisted in 1858 of five iron-clads, an iron-clad monitor, a floating battery, and 117 other vessels. The navy possesses 35 gun-boats for the defense of the coast of Chile, and 100 gun-boats for the coast of Peru. According to the new proposal, the reconstruction of the fleet ought to be completed in ten years, at the end of which Spain would possess 12 iron-clads, 2 iron-clad monitors, 7 floating batteries, 9 iron-clad cruisers, 11 gun-boats, 60 transports. A sum of $20,000,000, postpaid (about $4,000,000 per year), to be spent in ten years, is demanded from the government.

A revolver was recently stolen a valuable gold watch and a silver chain and medal. Suspicion fell upon two privates of the Coldstream guards, who had been mounted upon the terrace near the room.

Nothing was found upon the men, but near the tower where they were stationed a bell was discovered concealed in the ivy.

At Wrexham, in Wales, a few weeks ago, one of the attendants at a menagerie, while cleaning out the cage of the lions, placed his right hand upon the lion's head. The animal suddenly tore it off at the elbow. During the panic which ensued a number of persons were more or less seriously injured, a report having been started that the lion had escaped from its cage.

A revenue officer in the match-making industry is to be expected in the Romanian department of commerce and manufacturers has recently awarded a patent to the inventor of a means for impregnating wood with a liquid that, when dried, it lights with a slight crack and can be used several times over; these matches are to be sold at a lower rate, an economy of at least 75 per cent.

In the early months of the present session of parliament sixty-five measures were introduced by the government. Thirteen of them have since been withdrawn, and only sixteen have as yet received royal assent. Five of these have passed the chamber, including the franchise bill. Of the remaining thirty-one, twelve are in the committee stage and thirteen still await a second reading.

During the recent heavy rainfall in Poland and Galicia whole districts were completely flooded, hundreds of families losing their homes. The total amount of damage in value of the hay washed away was $60,000; at another it was $30,000, and in a third $10,000. No fewer than a hundred villages have been ruined. Old inhabitants say nothing equal to the devastation has occurred since 1813.

Spanish sailors having been included by Spain in the recent order to enforce quarantine on all English arrivals, the authorities at Gibraltar, by way of reprisals, have expelled from within the lines all Spaniards who did not possess annual licenses. The number thus expelled is variously estimated at from 4,000 to 6,000. They are principally laborers, and nearly all of them are in a destitute condition.

Pollution in Romania are in a state of considerable confusion. The conservatives have secured the support of students, and a part of their program comprises a scheme for detaching King Charles and his son from the seat of government. The liberals, on the other hand, are in a state of disarray. A correspondent who disbelieved this story at first has had his truth confirmed to his satisfaction by overtures made by the conspirators to intimate friends of his.

Mr. John Sullivan, editor of The Jersey Observer, has received a translation from her mother tongue into the Norman language and to publish her work "Miracles from the Journal of Our Life in the Highlands." In her letter signifying the royal pleasure to this effect, the queen's private secretary said, "I think it will be a source of great satisfaction to your majesty to find an interest shown in the Channel Islands in regard to her little work."

The Societe Hippique in Paris, which undertakes to look to the well-being of horses, has adopted among its reforms on the off of its horses the stable-stands, and in this country it has placed a number of booths and sponges at the public houses in all the chief thoroughfares. The innkeepers consider this a wise measure, for they find that they can profitably entertain the teamsters while the horses are quenching their thirst.

The porto is preparing to take a bold step. It is to be the first port in Europe to receive August 1st, when it will be the first day of the month, the world's first permanent post office. It will place sentinels at the foreign post office in the capital to prevent letters from being posted. It has also sent a circular to its representatives at the European courts and announced its intention to get rid of the post office. The porto is the first to have the right to the European embassies to receive its letters by special couriers, and to disregard every other kind of foreign interference.

Commercial enterprise has taken a new direction in Italy. The Italian Society for the Commercial exploration of Africa has organized a circumnavigation of Africa, with a view to affording the pupils of the high school of commerce an opportunity of becoming acquainted with likely markets for Italian products. The steamer will leave Genoa on the 1st instant for months, and the tourists are to be accompanied by a professor to lecture on the commercial geography of Africa.

Brinckwick the supreme court of the duchy is charged with the case which was commenced in 1804 before the imperial court of Wetzlar. It was carried on for half a century, and was then left in abeyance till a comparatively recent period. It involves a claim set up by the counts of Solms against the counts of Hartz, the ducal principal domain for the restriction of the whole of the estates, forests, and mines in the county of Blankenberg (Hartz mountains), which are valued at nearly £1,000,000. The Duke of Brunswick is the real defendant.

The Scolo, newspaper of Milan, says that the cholera germ described by Dr. Koch was discovered by an Italian, Dr. Filippo Pacini as far back as thirty years ago. In a treatise on "Diseases and their Cures" in 1834 in the Journal of Medicine and translated into English in 1835, he is mentioned in the "Archives of Military Medicine of Brussels" in 1855, and into English in the "Report on the Cholera Epidemic of 1856."

A THIEF IN A COFFIN.

Novel Plot to Rob a Cathedral.

The city of Mexico, the scene of many performances, is just now agog over the performance of a plot which is generally admitted to surpass anything before seen. A few days ago several men went to the priest in charge of the Santo Cruz church in that city and asked permission to hold a funeral service in the cathedral. The priest said at 4 o'clock the next morning. There was nothing unusual in the request, for many people in that country bury their dead in a church, the custom being to do so in the spot where they died.

The men then said they would like to leave the corpse over night, and that the clergyman also consented.

Some time after the priest had left the cathedral a man was seen appearing bearing a coffin, which he carried to the altar, and then withdrew, promising to be there early the next morning.

About midnight the curate was awakened by the barking of his dogs, and feeling that something was wrong he dressed and stepped from his room into the chancery. A dim light was BURNING NEAR THE ALTAR.

By now it was pitch dark, and a figure was seen walking slowly along the floor.

He stopped on the other side of the chancel and it was then that he realized

he was in the church.

He was in the chancery.

He was in the

THE Deseronto News Co.,
(LIMITED.)

Our JOB PRINTING Department

It replete with an abundant supply of type and material, together with first-class machinery. We are, therefore, in a position to execute all kinds of Job Printing in a very superior manner, at moderate rates, with despatch, and in time promised. Send or call and get an estimate. 22 orders by mail will receive prompt and careful attention.

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1884.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

VERY HOT.

A CAT'S PAW—a Thomas cat.

POLOVER shooting has commenced.

Slates at the TRIBUNE office from 5 cents.

MR. G. S. WAKEFORD, formerly of Deseronto, is now located at West Toronto on the C. P. R.

SOME of the solid men of St. George street now indulge of an afternoon in a game of croquet under the friendly shade of the town hall.

THE KINGSTON WHIG says that Mr. R. Dingman should challenge Hanlan. No necessity now; that great oarsman has been vanquished.

REPAIRS.—The tug "Munson" has arrived in port to undergo very extensive repairs at the Deseronto shipyard. It is the intention to make her virtually a new vessel.

AN Ohio man has just remarried the wife from whom he was divorced eight years ago. He proved to her that he had quit snoring and she demonstrated that she had learned to make good bread.

THERE has been a tremendous boom in ice cream during the past week, and Mr. R. Geddis has found it a heavy task to supply the great rush of customers to his restaurant on west Main street.

BEWARE.—Two umbrella tramps struck town on Saturday, who are said to be not over anxious for work. Such characters are suspected of belligerent intents, and honest citizens should sleep with at least one eye open.

SENTENCED.—Green who was recently committed to Belleville for stealing fager beer kegs, was sentenced last Friday by the police magistrate to two weeks imprisonment, dating from the time of his commitment.

GRATUIT CUT.—The Big Mill still continues to increase the record, having, on August 14th, cut 2,378 logs. The supreme effort will soon be made to reach 2,500, which accomplished, the Big Mill moonlight excursion on the Quinte follows.

THE NEWS of Hanlan's defeat was received here as elsewhere with much surprise, the Toronto man being considered invincible. It may have been an honest race, but little confidence is placed in professional oarsmen who are generally ready to sell out if occasion requires.

COMPLAINT.—A resident sends in a communication, the purport of which is that some parties are guilty of selling intoxicants on Sunday. He states that he has sufficient evidence to secure a conviction and that if there is a continuance of the illegal practice will most certainly take proceedings.

U. E. L.—Chiefs Green and Hill, represented the Tyendinaga Reserve, at the Niagara U. E. L. demonstration last week, and both delivered interesting addresses suitable to the occasion. Excellent speeches were also given by the Lieut. Governor and Senator Phelan. One Dennison, of Toronto, rather marred the proceedings by his extravagant buncionne.

A BUSY CONTRACTOR.—Mr. James Booth has finished his large contract at the Methodist Memorial church, Adolphustown, and has entered into another with Mr. Andrew Oliver, for the mason work on the addition to the Public School house. He will also build the new house to be erected by Mr. E. S. Grills on the lot which that gentleman purchased from Mr. Wm. Jamieson.

SUNFLOWERS.—An ardent admirer of Oscar Wilde has placed on our table some fine specimens of sunflowers. There are some fine displays of these honest, open-countenanced flowers to be seen this year in many gardens. They are said to be excellent preventives of malaria and their growth should therefore be encouraged in order to counteract the baleful supineness of our inefficient Board of Health.

CHEAPEST books at the TRIBUNE office.

IT is about time for wood chucks to be ripe.

THE TRIBUNE till the end of the year for 25 cents.

The Deseronto Flour Mills last Saturday evening completed the fifth consecutive run of 144 hours.

The streets presented a busy appearance last Saturday evening; the crowds being something extraordinary.

FAST time may be expected from the G. T. station to Kingston; a Kingstony cabby has traded horses with a gipsy.

Our thanks are due to our numerous correspondents for their contributions this week. It requires some self-decision to forward correspondence in such hot weather.

REMINISCENCE.—The excursion to the St. Lawrence Central Camp Ground of the Methodist Church will take place on Saturday next, 23rd inst., by the steamer Hero. Great attractions are held out for excursionists, and the fare from Deseronto is only $1.

INSURANCE.—Mr. Samuel Softley, representing Chas. E. Goad, C. E., of Montreal, was busy last week laying out a plan of Deseronto for the benefit of the leading insurance companies who will find it very convenient for reference.

GOOD FISHING.—There have been some splendid catches of fish made in this vicinity of late, one man having caught 70 fine bass in the vicinity of the light house at Telegraph Island in one day. Every fish pole is now daily in requisition.

HIGHER.—Mr. C. Goodmurry is adding a story to the double building occupied by Mr. D. R. McRae tinsmith, and Mr. R. H. Trimble, dry goods merchant. There is a pressing demand for more shops and offices in Deseronto.

THE TALLEST.—Mr. Joseph Maricle, who lives about a mile from town, has sent in some stalks of wheat which are truly magnificent samples. They are six feet, six inches high, and the heads are well filled with fine heavy grain. They cannot be beaten.

AS will be seen by advertisement in another column, Mr. James Anderson, late of Oshawa, directs the attention of the people of Deseronto to his intention of commencing the business of watchmaker and jeweler in Mr. W. Carter's new store, east Main St. He hopes by attention to business to gain a fair share of public patronage.

THE WEATHER.—The heat during the past week has been most oppressive, the maximum temperature being as follows:—Thursday, 84°; Friday, 89°; Saturday, 90°; Sunday, 90.3°; Monday, 90.1 and Tuesday, 90.3. Sunday and Tuesday were thus the hottest days of the season. The heavy showers which set in yesterday were timely and refreshing.

THE SCHOOLS.—In obedience to the dictates of educational red-tapeism, the public schools re-opened on Tuesday even though the thermometer was dancing in the nineties. Principal Emerson and the other teachers were at their posts prior to the call of duty. Miss Ross, of Whitchurch, also commenced her connection with the school by entering on the charge of the advanced department.

L. O. O. F.—Mr. Robert Jack has returned from St. Thomas, where he has been representing Deseronto Lodge of L. O. O. F. at the meeting of the Grand Lodge in that city. He took advantage of his visit to make a trip also to the Falls and other points of interest. The meetings of the Grand Lodge were very interesting and the reports showed marked progress all along the line. A. L. Morden of Napanee was elected Grand Master, and W. H. Martin, Chatham, D. G. M.

BAND CONCERT.—It requires some effort, even on the part of ardent seekers after amusement, to throw off the prevalent languor caused by the oppressive heat, and the Deseronto Cornet Band must accept it as a graceful compliment that such a large audience turned out to their Concert on Tuesday evening.

DR. NEWTON made an admirable chairman, opening the proceedings by referring to the obligations of the community to encourage the Band which was such a source of pleasure to the town. Solos were given by Miss Anderson, and Messrs. H. Burgess, H. Aylsworth, and Mallory; a duet, by Misses Barnard and Anderson; quartet, by Misses Anderson, Barnard, Parks and Mr. Walker. The feature of the evening was the inimitable whistling of Miss Armstrong, of Canton, N. Y., who was frequently encored. The band gave a couple of selections also in an excellent manner.

A. MILKER.—Mr. Wm. Jamieson, Treasurer of the local Agricultural Society, owns a very valuable cow which is much admired. It is of mixed Durham and Ayrshire breed and gives an extraordinary yield of milk.

I. O. F.—Messrs. Wm. Stoddart and D. Howard are representing Deseronto Court, I. O. F., at the meeting of the High Provincial Court of Ontario in Kingston this week. The reports presented are of the most encouraging character.

GOOD TIME COMING.—The Ladies' Guild at St. Mark's Church are busy preparing for a Lawn Festival which will take place at an early day. There will be a rich display of fancy work for sale on the occasion. Young men will do well to postpone their purchases of smoking caps and pen wipers.

SERENADE.—The Band have commenced their serenade visits. On Friday evening they marched to the Deseronto House to pay their respects to Mr. Watson Kirk and his bride. They were hospitably entertained by Mr. Kirk. The affair drew a large crowd to the neighborhood.

A WATERING cart is the great desideratum of the age as far as Deseronto is concerned. It would pay the business men to combine and employ one during the dusty season. Their goods must be greatly deteriorated in value by the clouds of dust which are blown into every part of their shops.

MOONLIGHT SAIL.—The staff of the Big Store are making arrangements for a pleasant trip down the bay by moonlight to Davy's Island. The stmr. Deseronto has been chartered for the occasion and the staff with their wives, families, and cousins will no doubt have a pleasant time.

EXCURSION.—Another of those pleasant excursions on the stmr. Quinte from Belleville to Napanee will take place on Saturday next. The stmr. will also call at Northport and other ports; fare for round trip 25 cents. The boat will leave Deseronto at 5 p. m. for Napanee.

NOT SO FAST.—We observe many teamsters who are in the habit of driving in their horses on the double quick just before feeding hours. This is alleged to be very injurious to horse flesh, impairing digestion, and preventing them from feeding to proper advantage. Better start for the stable a few minutes earlier and take it easier.

HONORED.—Mr. F. S. Rathbun, Capt. of the Deseronto Club, has been elected to the high position of Vice-Commodore of the American Canoe Association for the current year. The officers of the Association are now as follows:—Commodore, General Oliver, Albany; Vice-Commodore, F. S. Rathbun, Deseronto; Rear Commodore, F. F. Andrews, Rochester; Secretary, Mr. Neide; Members of the Executive Committee, Messrs. Rand, Wood and Vaux.

"TREASURES FROM THE PROSE WORLD" is the title of a new book being introduced in Deseronto. It is a finely arranged work giving biographies, engravings, and the finest selections of the best authors. Being of low price and rare merit it will meet with a large sale. Miss Annie Jones the Deseronto agent. Orders can be left at Egar's Drug and Bookstore, where the book can be seen.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Last Saturday, Miss Mary E. Glenn, daughter of Robert Glenn, of Ameliasburgh, went to Belleville to do some trading and in the evening attended the meeting of the Salvation Army at Metropolitan Hall. Before the meeting closed she left the hall, presumably for the purpose of going home. By mistake she opened a door leading to the back yard and stepped out falling to the ground beneath, a distance of twenty feet. The accident was soon discovered and assistance rendered. When picked up, Miss Glenn was insensible and remained in that state until she died about fifteen minutes later. It was some time before she was identified as she was a comparative stranger in the city. The deceased was 29 years of age.

LAUNCH.—The "Ida" was successfully launched at 6:15 o'clock last Saturday evening, under the most auspicious circumstances. A large crowd of spectators were assembled to witness the event, including residents of Deseronto and visitors from other towns on the bay, the Quinte especially having brought a very large excursion party from Belleville. The Deseronto Brass Band put in an appearance and, ascending, to the promenade deck a short time before the launch, played several inspiring airs. The "Ida" herself was gaily dressed with flags, and at the bow there hung suspended by a blue ribbon a bottle of champagne to be used in naming the new vessel, while on a temporary platform, the observed of all observers, stood Miss Idia Garrett, the daughter of the owner, ready to perform that pleasing ceremony. Mr. Evans had all his arrangements very complete and little time was lost in getting the vessel off. Wedges were quickly driven home, blocks split and shores removed, and the last block being nervously knocked out by Mr. John Stewart, the handsome vessel began to move. Miss Garrett deftly broke the bottle with its sparkling contents, on the spot, the band struck up "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," and the "Ida" glided gracefully into the bay. Everybody proclaimed the launch one of the prettiest that they had ever seen.

Machine oil at Egar's cheap and good.

Go to the Apothecaries Hall for all kinds of pure drugs, patent medicines, fine cigars and almost everything.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. Craig, of Kingston, is visiting at the manse.

Miss Rice, of Oswego, is the guest of Mrs. J. M. Potras.

Mr. E. Inley, of Jersey City, is on a visit to Mr. E. C. French.

Mr. J. W. Ross, of Cobourg, was in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Chisholm, of Napanee, spent a few days in town this week.

Mr. R. Pickers, of Toronto, has been enjoying a pleasure trip to Europe.

Mrs. H. Houston, of Cobourg N. Y., has been visiting at Christ Church Parsonage.

Mr. & Mrs. J. W. Bradbury spent a few days pleasantly at the Thousand Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. McMurtry, of Guelph are taking a pleasure trip to Europe.

Mrs. W. G. Egar has been suffering for some days from a serious attack of malarial fever.

Mrs. Peter Colp and family have been spending a couple of weeks visiting friends in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Rathbun Esq. had the honor of a visit last Thursday from Mr. Chas. Doherty, of the Rathbun Company Agency, Kingston.

Mrs. Jas. Geddie, of Picton, and Miss Edith Brown, of Peterboro, are the guests of Mrs. R. Geddie.

Mr. & Mrs. Smith & Powell, Syracuse N. Y., were the guest for a few days this week, of H. B. Rathbun Esq.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Titus, of Auburn N. Y., have been visiting Deseronto this week as guests of Mr. E. W. Rathbun.

Mrs. Green, daughter of Chief S. Green, was prostrated for a short time last Sunday with a slight attack of sunstroke.

Mrs. J. Carswell attended last Saturday for New Haven, whether she informed me of the serious illness of her sister.

Mr. E. W. Rathbun, Dr. Smith, and Mr. Herbert Rathbun spent some days at the beginning of the week at Wellington and had also a successful day at fishing at West Lake.

W. G. Egar is offering this week his lot of Jewelry at cost to make room for new lots to arrive in a few days.

A MARVELOUS STORY TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE FATHER: NEW YORK, AUGUST 21, 1884.
"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glens Falls, N. Y. He has been a great sufferer from sciatica, and the enclosed letter will tell you a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not, except in the form of a violent attack on the 1st of June of last year. For a few weeks which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire身. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and could not sit up without great difficulty. Now, however, he is a man of 73 years of age, and can sit up without any trouble. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in case.

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: NEW YORK, AUGUST 21, 1884.
"It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefits I have derived from the use of

AYER'S SARSPARILLA.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and rheumatic sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I scratched it. My feelings were great, and my life a burden. I had no time to work, and my wife was unable to care for me.

I had the honor of a visit last Thursday from Mr. Chas. Doherty, of the Rathbun Company Agency, Kingston.

Mrs. J. W. Egar has been suffering for some days from a serious attack of malarial fever.

Mrs. Peter Colp and family have been spending a couple of weeks visiting friends in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Rathbun Esq. had the honor of a visit last Thursday from Mr. Chas. Doherty, of the Rathbun Company Agency, Kingston.

Mrs. Jas. Geddie, of Picton, and Miss Edith Brown, of Peterboro, are the guests of Mrs. R. Geddie.

Mr. & Mrs. Smith & Powell, Syracuse N. Y., were the guest for a few days this week, of H. B. Rathbun Esq.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Titus, of Auburn N. Y., have been visiting Deseronto this week as guests of Mr. E. W. Rathbun.

Mrs. Green, daughter of Chief S. Green, was prostrated for a short time last Sunday with a slight attack of sunstroke.

Yours truly, HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Bolls, Tumors, and Eructions of the skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists; $1, six bottles for 55.

NEW GOODS, CHEAP GOODS,

RELIABLE GOODS,

—AT—

DOWNEY & CO'S.

Our Stock is now all in and will bear the closest scrutiny. Call and examine, and pass your opinion on our

Carpets, Oil Cloths, Lace Curtains,

Dress Goods, Black Goods, Silks—

Black & Colored, Prints and Cottons,

Tweeds and Ready-made Clothing,

And all of our immense Stock.

In MILLINERY, in DRESS-MAKING, in TAILOR-

ING, you will get reliable work done.

DOWNEY & CO.,

NAPANEE,

ONTARIO.

The Tribune.

VOL. I.

DESERONTO, ONT., THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1884.

NO. 49

THE TRIBUNE,

Published every Thursday Morning.

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO., (Limited),
Publishers and Proprietors.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—One copy, $1.00 per year;
50 cents per six months. Strictly in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES cheerfully made known on application. Favorable contract rates for large continued advertising.

All communications should be addressed to

THE DESERONTO NEWS CO., (LIMITED),
Deseronto, Ont.

PUBLIC DIRECTORY.

COAL.

FOR HOME USE OR BLACKSMITH SHOPS, AT lowest market rates. Write for prices.
THE RATHBUN CO.

SALT.

BY CAR LOAD, BARREL, OR IN BULK, AMERican or Canadian, at lowest market rates. Write for prices.
THE RATHBUN CO.

LAND PLASTER.

WATER LIME, PORTLAND CEMENT, AND
Plaster for sale, cheap, and full directions give how to use successfully. Write for prices.
THE RATHBUN CO.

NOTICE.

INSURANCE ON FARM OR VILLAGE PROPERTY at low rates in Standard Schedule—In the Royal Insurance Company and Commercial Union of England, Western, and British American of Toronto.

THE RATHBUN CO.,
Agents.

THE DESERONTO HOUSE.

THE HOUSE HAVING RECENTLY HAD MANY
improvements is now in excellent condition and solicits public patronage. Terms moderate. Convenient Sample Rooms for comfort and travellers. First-class Bar and Liquor Room in connection. Good Yard and Stables attached.
GEO. STEWART, Prop't.
Deseronto, Ont.

O'CONNOR HOUSE.

THIS HOTEL IS ELEGANTLY FURNISHED
throughout, in the latest style. Large and convenient Sample Rooms and comfortable accommodation for guests. Bar is supplied with all kinds of domestic Liquors and Cigars.
Charges moderate. First-class Liquor in connection. Good Yard and Stables attached.
F. O'CONNOR, Prop't.
Deseronto, Ont.

The Windsor Hotel,

PRINCESS AND MONTREAL STS., KINGSTON,
Ontario, Canada. First-class in every respect.
E. B. Smith, Chief Clerk.
MARTIN O'BRIEN, Proprietor.

MARRIAGE LICENCES.

T. G. FILE, ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENCES,
Deseronto, Ont.

J. ROBINSON,

PAINTER, GLAZIER, PAPER HANGER, GRAIN-er, etc., Deseronto, Ont., painting and coloring in all its branches. Complete all work in a very prompt, efficient and so cheaply as to defy competition. Orders should be left at the Time Office.

House and Lot for Sale.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE, ON reasonable terms, a good House and Lot, in the village of Deseronto, situated on the North side of Thomas St. For further particulars apply to
R. B. R. Deseronto.

HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE.

THE SUBSCRIBER OFFERS FOR SALE, ON reasonable terms, a few new Homes and Lots in the village of Deseronto. This fine property is conveniently situated in a pleasant locality within three miles of the post office and business center. Apply to T. N. CARTER, Deseronto.

JAMES R. BOOTH,

BUILDER AND CONTRACTOR, IS READY TO take all kinds of work, Plastering, Etc., Parties desired any work whatever in this line will find their order attended to with promptness and attention.
25-2 JAS. R. BOOTH, Deseronto.

CHOICE LAND PLASTER IN SACKS, 250 lbs for $1.00. Every Farmer should use it.

THE RATHBUN CO'.

MCKELVY & BIRCH,

TINSMITHS, PLUMBERS, STEAM AND
GAS FITTERS,

Dealers in Stoves and House Furnishing
Hardware, Hot Water and Steam
Heating a specialty.

72 BICK STREET,
KINGSTON,
ONT.

LARDINE MACHINE OILS

Have no equal.

MANUFACTURED SOLELY BY

McCOLL BROS. & CO.,
TORONTO, ONT.

Ask your merchant for Lardine.

1-1

W. B. GRAHAM,
House, Sign and Decorative Painter.

Graining, Glazing, Paper-hanging, Kalomining, Tinting, Etc.

All orders executed with promptitude and
at very moderate prices.

Orders may be left at T. N. CARTER'S,
Main St., Deseronto. 26-

DESERONTO
NAVIGATION COMPANY
(LIMITED)

Until further notice the following steamers
of the above company will run as follows:

Str. DESERONTO.

Leave Napane 6:00 A.M. Leave Picton 5:00 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto 6:45 A.M. Deseronto 5:30 P.M.
Arrive Picton 7:30 A.M. Arrive Napane 6:50 P.M.

This company makes one extra trip between Picton
and Deseronto.

Leaves Picton 9:00 A.M. Leaves Deseronto 1:00 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto 11:00 A.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Str. PILGRIM.

Leave Napane 6:00 A.M. Leave Trenton 1:00 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto 7:30 A.M. Arrive Napane 3:00 P.M.
Arrive Trenton 11:00 A.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Str. QUINTE.

Leave Picton 6:00 A.M. Leave Trenton 1:00 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto 7:30 A.M. Arrive Napane 3:00 P.M.
Arrive Trenton 11:00 A.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

Arrive Deseronto 1:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 2:30 P.M.

Arrive Napane 7:00 P.M.

Arrive Trenton 11:00 P.M. Arrive Picton 7:30 P.M.

UP A POLE.

A Line Repairer's Story.

"One of my companion's had a queer experience once," continued Dick, "and he was the last to speak of the same part for a year. 'We were running a line of wire through Elmira, and were on one of the principal streets. Jim, as we called the fellow, shinned a high pole and began fastening the wire to the top. The wire was just in front of a fourth story window, and Jim was not more than forty-eight inches from the building. A boy on the street yelled, 'The pole is falling!' and I leaped through the open window. When he alighted inside he found he was in a nice, cosy little bedroom with little boxes of rouge, and numerous bottles of perfume, and about on the shelves. Jim had not had the slightest idea what to do. He dare not attempt to climb back on the pole, and he could hear voices in the next room. He was waiting for him, thinking he was coming to help him, and when he was told he was trembling inside for fear the regular occupant of the room might enter. Finally, he tied a paper to a thread and let it down. It said, 'What do you think I should do? I've got myself into some hole in old Jim's bedroom. We let him up there half an hour longer, and then went up and made matters right with the tenants.'

Persian Imitations of Antiques.

The taste of the Persian for the magnificence of objects appears to be rapidly extending all over the globe. Japan and America, too, speak of France and America, have long since taken up the trade, but among the most popular articles of the field are the ornaments of the King of Persia, as he used to be styled, the Shah of Persia. An American Consul in that country gives an interesting account of how the modern Persians profit by the present craze or mania for antiques among the British and American public.

What has been lost by Persia in the pearl fishery she seems likely to make up in part by the new industry of manufacturing imitations of ancient Persian armor and coins to the taste of the European and American collectors. But the most popular object long since absorbed most of the best specimens of the most interesting of the industrial arts of the East. Specimens still exist but are not easily obtained, and at a high price; as they are limited to Persian and Indian antiques. If there are no specimens to be had with carved and inlaid helmets, breast plates, and buckles, there is an army of collectors, artists, and virtuosi, studios or banqueting halls, and the artists of Persia have taken up the business of manufacturing old arms which may be had at a reasonable price. Sometimes these pseudo-antiques are sold with little attempt to conceal the fact that they are new, while in many cases much cunning has been exercised in giving them the appearance of age. Only an expert could detect the difference between some of these imitations and the genuine antiquities. The Jews of Hamadan also carry on an extensive manufacture of spurious antique coins. That city, the ancient Ecbatana, stands above any other city in Persia, probably, in the number of its inhabitants, and the toll seems to be full of gold and silver coins, and the like. Although pretty well dug over of late years, yet the supply does not appear to be exhausted. Fine examples of the coins of Alexander the Great and the Sasanian Kings are to be had, but the greed with which they have been dug up by travellers has led the Jews of that city to consider it easier to counterfeit them than to dig for them. A steady supply of spurious coins is therefore constantly furnished the market from the source. Even gold antiques are thus imitated, having a coating of real gold, and cleverly simulating the appearance of age.

Living on Human Flesh.

A Washington editor of the Chicago Tribune says: "A Mr. J. B. of Chicago, who has arrived here from a trip to the Rocky Mountains, brings word that a man named William Owens, a California miner, was found by some railway navvies near Kickin' Horse river a few days ago in a famished and partially decomposed condition. Owens said he had been with Joseph Williamson, from Kamloops on a prospecting trip, expecting to strike the Columbia River, but their supply of provisions gave out before reaching there. They travelled for six days and half without food, when Williamson laid down dead. Mr. Owens then cut strips of flesh from his dead companion's legs, which he ate sparingly, and proceeded on his tramp. He had been living six days on human flesh when found and was in a condition of the dried flesh in an old handkerchief. He was emaciated, and told his story with difficulty. He repeated the horrible details on several occasions and all who heard him are convinced that the story is true. He had a last roll of bills with him. The police have taken the matter in hand and will investigate it."

An Indian Fable.

An owl, puffed up with pride and vanity, was repeating his doleful cries at midnight from the hollow of an old oak. "How it is," he said, "that silence prevails in these woods, unless it be to allow my melodious voice to be heard?" So he continued. The groves are charmed with my voice, when I sing all nature lists." An echo repeated the words, "All nature lists." "The nightingale has usurped my rights," continued the owl; "she is sweet, it is true, but mine is much more melodious." "Much more melodious?" said the owl, "I am not asked to prove that. In the dead of the night, when the moon is in the depths of the Ganges, spreading thence over the globe through the medium of the religious and comical gatherings.

Directions for Intelligent Living.

1. Never tell an unnecessary lie.
2. Never tell a lie at all unless required by honor or the exigencies of society.
3. When you tell one, remember it and do not repeat it.
4. Tell it with perfect politeness and an air of conviction.
5. If your statement is questioned, say, as to those parts of it which are true, that you may be mistaken (you can prove them); pledge your word to the rest if it is a question of honor.

She Needed Rest.

Fair Patient—"Have you any idea what is the matter with me, doctor?"

"Doctor—"Why, I can diagnose you easily, with my eyes shut. There is nothing the matter with you except that you need rest."

Fair Patient—"Why, I have just come back from a whole month at the most popular health resort."

An eminent astronomer says: "It would take ten years to photograph the heavens. My! Pretty near as long as it would to photograph the baby."

"Well, my young gentlemen, and how would you like to get your hair cut? 'Oh, like a hawk,' please—with a little round hole at the top."

"Sweep it, mamma," said a bright little dot of a girl as she brought a piece of bread and butter to her mother which had dropped on the floor beside side down.

"My dear," said a wife to her husband, "suppose a party of men would break into the house some night when you were away, and abuse me, what would you do?"

"That is not the supposeable case," he replied.

Pullman cars are a great comfort to travel in Mexico. The wise bandits never follow the passengers. They go for the porters.

Not another shall go down my throat again, said a citizen "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant service." Dr. Charles A. Stomach Bitter. It renders the blood full of life and makes a splendid Spring Medicine. Large bottles 50 cents.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

Wounds given to honor never heal. Never accuse others to excuse yourself. He that sips of many arts, drinks of none. Every great passion is but a prolong'd hope. He who lives but for himself lives but for a little thing.

Our acts make or mar us; we are the children of our acts.

Human government is imperfect because human nature is.

Fiction pleases the more in proportion as it relates truth.

Innocence is like polished armour, it adorns and defends.

Who so keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from trouble.

To succeed one must sometimes be very bold in seeking one's present.

Sincerity is the way to heaven. To think how to be sincere is the way of man.

There is no knife than cuts so sharply and with such poisoned blade as treachery.

As to trouble, who expects to find trouble without stones, or roses without thorns?

Vanity keeps persons in favor with themselves who are out of favor with all others.

Religion is not a thing of noise and papa, but of silent self-sacrifice and quiet growth.

Live on what you have; live if you can on less; do not borrow, for vanity will end in poverty.

If you had the abilities of all the great men past and present, you could do nothing well, without sincerely meaning it, and setting about it.

Many persons fancy themselves friends when they are only officious. They counsel not, but they that they should become wise, as that they should be recognized as teachers of wisdom.

Verily, travellers have seen many idols in many countries; but no human eyes have ever seen more daring, gross, and shocking images of the Devil's nature than we creatures of the world, in our own likeness, of our own bad passions.

Christianity means to the merchant that he should be honest; to the judge it means that he should be just; to the servant, that he should be diligent; to the street-sweeper, that he should be clean; to the cook, that his work shall be well done.

There is a "divine discontent" which lies at the root of all improvement, and without which we should stagnate. The indolence which craves nothing but quiet, the stupidity which sees nothing to hope or work for, and the vanity which is self-satisfied through its ignorance of better things are all foes to happiness and clog upon progress.

An Old Enemy.

Macpherson, an eminent cholera historian, states that the cholera is one of the most ancient diseases, and that distinct descriptions exist, and there are few diseases respecting which such an interrupted chain of evidence has been preserved.

Sporadic, or spasmodic, cholera prevailed in the time of Hippocrates (B. C. 460), of which he gives a detailed account.

Avicenna, of Sacratu, in Sancrit, describes a fatal disease called vischikha, embracing all of the striking symptoms of the cholera of the time.

In B. C. 120, Galen had a full account of the disease at that time, as also, Galen in A. D. 381; Alexander, of Trallas, 460; Paulus Aegyptius, 769; Rhazes, of Bagdad, 900; Arisbeus, in 1000, and we find a history of its prevalence down to the present date.

The birthplace of cholera is admitted by all to be the Ganges, in the delta of the Ganges, spreading thence over the globe through the medium of the religious and comical gatherings.

Catarrh—A New Treatment.

Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern science has been made by the Dixon treatment of Catarrh.

Out of 2,000 cases treated, in six months, fully ninety per cent. have been cured, the less starting with a common cold.

It is a simple and effective remedy.

The great and frequent cause of Catarrh is the presence of living parasites in the body.

On the 1st of April, 1852, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

This accomplished the catarrh.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1853, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1854, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1855, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1856, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1857, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1858, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1859, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1860, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1861, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1862, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1863, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1864, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1865, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1866, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1867, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1868, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1869, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1870, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1871, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1872, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1873, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1874, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1875, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1876, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1877, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1878, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1879, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1880, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1881, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1882, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1883, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1884, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1885, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1886, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1887, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1888, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1889, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1890, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1891, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1892, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1893, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1894, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1895, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1896, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1897, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1898, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1899, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

On the 1st of April, 1900, Mr. Dixon

adopted his cure to the exterior.

As the cure effected by him four years ago are stills, no one else has ever attempted to repeat it.

READ.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Michael Tighe, an old man 85 years of age and who lives with his son Mr. Dominick Tighe, of the sixth concession, left home on Wednesday of last week and not returning home next day his family went in search of him, but could not learn anything about him. His friends and neighbors turned out in all directions and were searching for him all week. On Saturday afternoon the search was about being given up when Mr. John Dore of Shantyville, suggested that the old man continue on. He, in company with Mr. Dominick Tighe, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon traced the old man into a swamp back of Mr. Samuel T. Smith's farm. The old man was found to be in a condition of exhaustion, and the old man was nearly covered with water, and had not been so promptly rescued he would not have been alive by morning. Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Dore for his prompt and persistent efforts to rescue the old man, and his conduct in the matter is fully appreciated by Mr. Tighe's relatives and friends.

Mrs. Jones, of Huron county, has been appointed to our school as successor to our late teacher, whose name was recently communicated to us. Miss Jones holds a second-class certificate and is a graduate of the Normal School, Ottawa. She comes highly recommended and no doubt will continue the good work so well inaugurated by our late teacher.

Dr. Hogan, of New York, is on a visit to the city.

Mr. Cornelius McLaughlin, of Chicago, is visiting his relatives here.

Mr. Myer Vanmeren, who was so badly injured in a threshing machine accident lately, is improving, but will be laid up for some time.

During the week we have had intensely hot weather. On Sunday and Monday the thermometer registered 94° in the shade. We have had a few showers, which have considerably cooled the atmosphere.

Our farmers will begin cutting up the harvests. In some places late oats are not yet ripe, but a few more days of such weather as we have had lately will ripen them.

Several lots of lamb around here have been sold at $2.50 and $2.75 each.

AMERICAN CANOE ASSOCIATION.

(From our own Correspondent.)

GRINDSTONE ISLAND.— Sabbath morn broke fair and still upon the limpid water of the St. Lawrence. The scene became the day. Nature did homage to her King, and rested. Across the water came from the distant hills the church bells plainly heard in the clear air. Quietly the early morning passed in Camp. Very few were on the water. At eleven o'clock the bell rang for Divine Service in the dining hall, and very soon every seat was occupied and the service over the grass adjacent. The service was conducted by the very Rev. Dean Hoffman, Rev. S. Bushnell and T. Russell—all campers. It was short and generally engaged in. Did we hazard a critique at all we would say that it might have been a little better and shorter, if better known hymns had been selected in a different form of service employed. And also we thought it had form for the peculiar doctrine of a certain church on the important subject of Regeneration to be expounded, when the audience was so mixed. We were glad to see that the service was not suggestive of any one branch of the church, in which all could join freely, and without the least scruple.

We had the privilege of a practical application of this suggestion in the afternoon as service in Round Island, when we were edified by a spirited sermon by Rev. Mr. Chudall, of New York. Sabbath evening closed quietly in a camp of campers at people from all over the world. On Monday, rope had fed the camp. On Tuesday, Heaps of hunting, of visitors, of steam launches, of good humor, of endless jokes. The review of the fleet in the afternoon, with the mimic illumination of canons in the evening, all rendered the sightseer, and gave the artist whose name was Legion, unexceptional grouping. The Steamer was photographed so often, that at last in self defense, he charged $20.00 on sitting all subsequent visitors.

The Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, notwithstanding the heat oppressive, and the postponements through no wind, developed new features of the Association, and fresh attractions for visitors. Deseronto Camp began on Monday evening to draw out, and the westward bound to their canoes by moonlight paddled the Cormorant and Mate, followed next by the heavy man of the camp on his way to Lake Joseph, and the Civil Engineer on his way to Tarett. Wednesday morning, Wednesday by the dominie and professor. So far, so good. This disheveled and profane crew that struck camp on Thursday, seeking the hospitable and enchanting paleness of Round Island Hotel, and on Friday, bowled into Deseronto time for tea. Ere this Grindstone Island had earned its name, quiet. The gay company have gone, and the listless tourist is shown the spot, now illustrious, where camped the A. C. A. No accident marred the Meet; though our mate showed up unopposed when he swallowed turpentine instead of something more palatable; and another fell foul of a colic; and another got too close to the barbs of a trolling hook; and another tried to sail his canoe far upwards. A cent might have been offered in relief to Neptunes, who at Lake George camp braved the face of the devouring sea and hurled him with his victim into the drink. We unhesitatingly pronounced the A. C. A. a success. Its life is so unique that it will attract. Its modus operandi is unique, that it includes all rough and hanger-on of society. Fair women count it a favor to be ranked among the honorary members, and to join in the grand meet. The eyes of the modern Hiawatha gleam as he courts his Minnehaha, and follows her with protecting care; and she delights to paddle a paddle and glide by the verdant shore, or join around the evening campfires in pleasant song and dance. The more the merrier, and the more increase as each successive meet is held, and as we say bon voyage to all as they return to life's duties, we look forward with brightest anticipations to the meet of 1855.

—Is coming to push business in a few days.

MRS. MIX
Has just arrived from Toronto with a LARGE STOCK OF
Feathers, Flowers,
Bonnets, Hats, Etc.,
Of the latest styles, which will be sold very cheap
Don't fail to call before purchasing elsewhere.

Remember the place—near TRIBUNE office, Main St., Deseronto.

ESTABLISHED 1873

Apothecaries Hall.

A full and complete line of

Drugs and

Chemicals,

Toilet articles, Brushes,

Combs, Perfumes,

Patent Medicines

of all kinds,

Trusses and Supporters.

School Books,

Wall Paper

Stationery.

Office of Dr. Newton.

W. Geo. EGAR,

Main Street, Deseronto.

A FEW HINTS

FOR THE USE OF

AYER'S PILLS
DOSE.—To move the bowels gently, 2 to 4 Pills; thoroughly, 4 to 6 Pills. Experience will decide the proper dose in each case.

For Constipation, or Costiveness, no remedy is so effective as AYER'S PILLS. They insure regular daily action, and restore the bowels to a healthy condition.

For Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, AYER'S PILLS are invaluable, and a sure cure.

Heart-burn, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach, Flatulence, Dizziness, Headache, Numbness, Nausea, are all relieved and cured by AYER'S PILLS.

In Liver Complaint, Bilious Disorders, and Jaundice, AYER'S PILLS should be given in doses large enough to excite the liver and bowels, and remove constipation. As a cleansing medicine in the Spring, these PILLS are unequalled.

Worms, caused by a morbid condition of the bowels, are expelled by AYER'S PILLS.

Expectorant, Diastatic, and Piles, the result of Indigestion or Constipation, are cured by the use of AYER'S PILLS.

For Colds, take AYER'S PILLS to open the pores, remove inflammatory secretions, and allay the fever.

For Diarrhea and Dysentery, caused by sudden colds, indigestible food, etc., AYER'S PILLS are the true remedy.

Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, and Sciatica, often result from digestive derangement, or colds, and disappear on removing the cause by the use of AYER'S PILLS.

Tumors, Dropsey, Kidney Complaints, and other disorders caused by debility or obstruction, are cured by AYER'S PILLS.

Suppression, and Painful Menses, often a safe and ready remedy in

AYER'S PILLS.

Full directions, in various languages, accompany each package.

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists.

Cheap Groceries !!
Cheap Groceries !!

—AT THE—
INDIAN STORE

Just arrived a fresh lot of Groceries which we are selling at the following very low prices.

12 lbs. Granulated Sugar $1.00.

14 lbs. Very Bright Sugar $1.00.

15 lbs. Bright Sugar $1.00.

16 lbs. Bright Sugar $1.00.

17 lbs. Good Sugar $1.00.

Other lines will be found equally as cheap.

Don't fail to give us a call and be convinced that you can save 25 cents on the dollar by buying your goods at the

INDIAN STORE.

WATSON KIRK.

JUST OPENED,
12 CASES LAMP CHIMNEYS,

All sizes and shapes—plain and fancy. Salamander Flint Chimneys.

FIVE CASES OF THE FOLLOWING:—

Decorated Shades, Opal Shades,

Paper Shades, Shade Rings, Etc.

Bracket Lamps, Hanging Lamps,
Library Lamps, Chandeliers,
Illuminators, Etc., Etc.

Lamp Burners—all kinds and sizes, Genuine American Head Light Coal Oil, Water White A 1 Canadian Coal Oil, Stoves, Tinware, House Furnishings, Etc.; for Quality and Cheapness cannot be beat.

D. R. MCRAE.

Practical Tinsmith, Plumber, Steam & Gas Fitter.

THE BIG STORE!

Having cleared out most of our Stock since the recent fire in our Store, we are now daily receiving New Goods, in every department, and as we turn over large quantities and pay cash, we are enabled to buy at very low prices.

We are now placing before our Customers a large range of Fresh, New and Fashionable Goods, well worth the attention of all purchasers. Prices are as low as the same class of Goods can be bought in Canada.

We would direct special attention to our stock of

All Wool Nuns Veiling, in all the new Shades.

All Wool Soudan Serges in all the new Shades.

All Wool Cashmeres in all the new Shades.

We would direct special attention to our stock of

Sheetings, Shirtings, Tickings,
Hemp, Kidderminster, and Tapestry Carpets, Oilcloths,
and Lineolums.

IN THE TAILORING DEPARTMENT

We shall maintain our pre-eminence by selling only reliable Goods, manufactured in the newest and most improved styles.

Our stock of Boots and Shoes is second to none in Ontario. We are selling Ladies' Button Kid Top Boots, from $1.25, Lace from $1.00. Boots and Shoes ordered specially for those who are hard to fit.

IN the Grocery and Provision Department

Will be found the best selected stock between Montreal and Toronto, comprising all the best goods to be obtained in the home and foreign markets. We are offering another lot of Layer Raisins, splendid quality, at $1.25 a box—worth $2.25.

The Big Store is Head Quarters for Salt in Bbls. and 56lb. Sacks for Dairy Purposes.

A complete stock of Hardware, Crockery and Glassware, Window Glass, Paints and Oil, etc., always on hand. Prices reasonable.

Our Motto is to buy only reliable Goods, and to sell them at the lowest possible price, believing that shoddy, trashy goods are dear at any price.

We shall be glad to show our goods, and quote prices to those who will favor us with a call.

A. A. RICHARDSON,

Main street, Deseronto. Manager.

AN GREENROOM ROMANCE

IN THREE SCENES—SCENE I.

Mr. Percy Montmorency was seated in front of a looking-glass in his dressing-room at the Pantheon Theatre, habited in the costume of a Chinaman, and the audience in attendance. The name of "Montmorency" was merely a nom de theatre assumed by Harry Stanley when he adopted the pseudonym of "Jack." He was the prettiest and handsomest boy on the boards of a metropolitan theatre; for Mr. Stanley was the only child of his father Colonel Stanley; and consequently heir to that gallant off' ered in Yorkshire and Lancashire, who, at the time of his death, was twenty, undeniably good-looking, and endowed with considerable abilities. Having completed the arrangement of the powdered wig, the periwig without a passed and considerable effect, the well-simulated admiration of Mr. Charles Mathews never looked the part better.

The actor opened the ball. "You must have been a clever party in the passage, that was the governor." He is very irate because I won't all in love at the word of command, and marry Miss Austruther, whom I have never seen. By-the-bye, you have seen her, but that is not the point.

"I have a love girl," replied Vallance. "I met her at a ball at Scarborough soon after her arrival from the West Indies, Faith, Harry, you might do worse."

"I am sure you are right, sir. But a little cold. They'll warm up when you go on, sir."

"Tell the call-boy I want him, Jackson."

Jackson withdrew; and Montmorency surrendered himself to a moment's soliloquy which he had not time to finish when "I wonder what my father wishes to see me about?" The same old story, I suppose—the folly and wickedness of the step I have taken. Well, of course, I am certain I am not off' my present position than wedded to that Barbara, Miss Austruther, in spite of her money-bags, and whom I have never seen."

These reflections were put an end to by the entrance of the call-boy.

"If a gentleman giving the name of Colonel Stanley should call, show him in here."

"He is outside, sir," replied the boy.

"Show him in at once, whether he comes with snow-white hair and suspending himself on a stick. Montmorency advanced, shook hands with a great show of cordiality, and placed a chair on which Colonel Stanley slowly seated himself, gazing around the room with a look of intense and expression of curiosity. "So this is the theatrical dressing-room. You are pretty sang."

The room certainly deserved the encomium of the old colonel. Painting in oils and water colors nearly covered the walls; many piped organs—boxed and unboxed—bottles littered on the table; cases of change-bags repose in one corner, while in the other was a small pile of silver water.

The colonel, after indulging in a sigh, proceeded: "I have called, Harry, before I return to you, to give you my most appeal to you to give up your present mode of life, settle down as a landed proprietor in your native county, and marry Miss Anstruther."

It was now the turn of the young man to sigh. "I have no time, my dear colonel, sir. I am already wedded—to the stage."

"That may be; but unions can easily be dissolved by a divorce, especially in these days."

"Not where the contracting parties are so well and truly matched for my profession."

"No, sir. If a man could take a wife on a lease, for seven, fourth, twenty or years, the case would be different."

But the feeling that my lot in life was fixed cut and dried so—speak—the matter over again. The young man felt strongly inclined to insist on a stage-walk, but the limited area of the apartment forbade such a physical relief. If the reader should consider the remarks of the actor somewhat flippant, it must be borne in mind that he is a man of character, did not fall under that definition, would have acted as Harry Stanley had done.

The old man scowled as he resumed: "I wonder you can respect yourself, disengaged and painted like a mummy at a pantomime."

"I am of the same calling as the glory of England, Shakspeare the actor!"

"And poet—you forgot that, sir—poet, sir," sharply retorted the colonel.

"I can assure you, sir, we have meet of good, fair, and very small parts to-night. Trix took him to Oxford, and I Backbite is the town."

"Trix," replied the colonel, "if that be the case, why do you all sail under false colors?" Why resign the honoured name of Stanley for the franchised one of Montmorency?"

The young man bowed as he responded: "Out of deference to the shallow scruples of the narrow-minded portion of society."

"Which you consider a member, eh?"

It was in a momentary solicitude that his son took up the argument. "Pray, sir, let me ask you a question. Do poets and novelists never adopt a nom de plume? Did not Miss Evans style herself 'George Eliot'?"

The late Governor of India, "Owen Merriweather," also assumed the name of Kameo, "Ouida"; Dickens, "Boz"?

"That'll do," interrupted the colonel.

"The one fine day you will be falling in love, as you call it, with one of these artful and wily women, to whom you will be a match for a crown or a pastorate." For, of course, you will bring up your offspring to the profession, as you call it, as if there were no other profession in the world."

His son held his breath proudly up as he replied: "No, sir. I trust I shall never forget that I was the honoured name of Stanley."

The colonel remained silent for several moments, and observed; "I shall never understand why you declined to even see Miss Austruther."

"Because the very fact that the lady was labelled my future wife," replied the son, "would have caused me to detect her at first sight."

The old colonel rose from his seat. "I can see very plainly that I am wasting both your time and my own—suppose you will have to do a little 'tumblin' presently?"

"I will go to front, you will see my box,"

Montmorency rang the bell as he spoke, and when the call-boy appeared, directed him to show his visitor into box A.

The boy was indulging in a sigh of relief, when a head appeared at the half-closed door, and a voice exclaimed: "May I come in?"

Montmorency bounded from his chair as he seized hold of the extended hand and drew the owner into the room. The new-comer was a young man of about the same size as the actor, and was habited in the dress of a dandy. Montmorency wrung the hand of friend Vallance, and forced him into a seat. "Delighted to see you, Jack! I have a weed and a settler!"

In a moment two young men were already engaged, and immersed in the consumption of a couple of choice Partys.

The actor opened the ball. "You must have been a clever party in the passage, that was the governor." He is very irate because I won't all in love at the word of command, and marry Miss Austruther, whom I have never seen. By-the-bye, you have seen her, but that is not the point.

"I have a husband, whom I know every-thing about, and who is a good man, sir. Jack?"

"First tell me, Julia, how you managed to persuade your husband to recede?"

"I told him I was a widow."

"I told him I was a widower."

"I told him I was a widow."

"I told him I was a widower."

"I told him I was a widow."

"I told him I was a widower."

"I told him I was a widow."

"I told him I was a

AGRICULTURAL.

Fall Fallowing.

It is singular that success should be so little understood and appreciated, that is so thoroughly efficient in ridding land of all noxious weeds, and which so perfectly fits it for the production of a profitable spring crop. The reason is in this true if not well known, and is an argument for no mangers.

Sow Rutabagas.—It does not pay to stake tomatoes.—Prepare new strawberry plants and set the plants as soon as you can. Raw horse dung is a good fertilizer, but the soil should be mellowed with old farm manure.

Cultivate between the raspberries. Now is the time to rid the land of weeds and hedge. The upland fields cannot be staked securely enough from the marsh canals and lateral so as to induce a stately growth. Do the same for blackberries.

Uncle Waldo is of the opinion that wire is a cheap material for fence, as it enables the farmer to use his land and to let it at the same time. Distance apart that can be done when boards are used. But he is afraid to use or recommend barb wire to much extent, as there is great danger to cattle. He has had a horse from it. Use wire in the past three months two of the 12 members of the farmer's club to whom he belongs have had horses injured in it.

Larger Waldo and cheaper fences, says Uncle Waldo, in the N. Y. Tribune. He asserts that at least one-half of the best land and on every farm could be profitably thrown up and never partake.

—There are thousands of farmers, he thinks, who have planted largely of hedge, who would be willing to lease the whole of it if the cost of cutting up, but not digging out an old hedge involved nearly the same expense as making a new fence. He has had 32 cases experience with Osgo Orange hedge, and finds it so troublesome to care for, that he would not allow a man to plant another on his farm if he would do it for nothing and care for it till it would turn stock.

One Explanation of the Horse-Shoe Superstition.

The principal gateway at Allahabad is thickly studded with horseheads of every size and make. There are hundreds of them nailed all over the great gates, doubtless the offerings of many a wayfarer who has longed to be rid of the horse and the subsequent plowing and continuous cultivation are sure destruction to all. Fallowing now only clears the land, but it enriches it by allowing the clover to attain full size, the best root crop, and secures a crop in a short time after having, if pastured in it should not be), in favorable seasons a large second growth is sure to be turned under and this is in the best possible condition for reseeding the same soil, and when plowing up in the Spring, it forms the best of all preparations for a paying crop of barley, oats or early potatoes.

It is surprising, how prone men are to persist in the old-fogy, expensive, soil-exhausting system of summer-fallowing when a way so much quicker and better exists for clearing the land.

Ants as Insect Destroyers.

Farmers in countries in their contact with insects, have not as yet called to their aid, as they should, other insects and birds, the natural enemies of insect pests, birds, the Sun. Two generally all insects are looked upon as enemies, although it is well known that many kinds of insects are very beneficial, and that insects are the natural enemies of many other insects. The ants, although generally regarded as an unmitigated nuisance, have been found, by careful observation, to be useful in several ways. The canker-worms, which are a most destructive pest to fruit trees, are sometimes destroyed in large numbers by them. The editor of the Boston Journal of Chemistry says that ants are great destroyers of other worms or insects of the smaller varieties. He also says that the ants are the work of a large colony of black ants which attacked the canker-worms on an elm tree in his grounds a few weeks ago, and was delighted with the nature and results of their labors. Two processions of the ants were seen on the trunk of the tree, one going up empty, the other coming down, each bringing with him a canker-worm which he held fast in his mandibles, grasping the worm firmly in the centre of the body. Although the prey was nearly the size of the destroyer, the plucky little ant never flinched, but held his victim in its body in its nest in the ground, and instantly returned for another slaughter. There were at one time as many as 40 coming down the tree, each bringing along his victim, and the tree was soon cleared of its curse. Extending his observations, he noticed that the ants ran up the trunk and out on the limbs, thence onto the leaves of the tree where the filthy worm was at work, and seizing it with a strong grip at the center of the body, and retraced his steps to the entrance. The eunuchs made frantic efforts to force an entrance, and as we do so the birds, who during the fight kept up an incessant chattering, charged upon him and brought him to bay. They then carried him off from him and carried him to the store of J. B. Spear, and from time to time to the Boston store. Finding himself hard pressed, he beat a retreat, but the sparrows followed him from the sidewalk, and he sought an entrance to the store of J. B. Shaw. Here also he was successful, and he ran for the other side of the street, closely followed by the entire flock of sparrows, who had no opportunity to give him a clip and baste his speed. He finally entered the Pierce block, and thus escaped further punishment.—Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin.

A Squirrel Punished by Sparrows.

Parties coming up Main street at an early hour of a frosty morning were somewhat surprised to see a large and apparently tame squirrel nascen across the street and entering the store of Ross & Rich. It was also noted that the squirrel had been followed by a flock of sparrows, the majority of whom took a position opposite the door, so as to cut off his retreat. Half a dozen birds remained on the wing, fluttering their efforts to force an entrance, and as we do so the birds, who during the fight kept up an incessant chattering, charged upon him and brought him to bay. They then carried him off from him and carried him to the store of J. B. Spear, and from time to time to the Boston store. Finding himself hard pressed, he beat a retreat, but the sparrows followed him from the sidewalk, and he sought an entrance to the store of J. B. Shaw. Here also he was successful, and he ran for the other side of the street, closely followed by the entire flock of sparrows, who had no opportunity to give him a clip and baste his speed. He finally entered the Pierce block, and thus escaped further punishment.

Sowing Orchard Grass.

Those farmers who desire to seed to Orchard Grass should prepare the land for the reception of the seed, which should be sown early in August. The land should be thoroughly prepared because this is not only requires it, but well deserves it, remaining in the ground, as it does, for 20 or 30 years, or even more, when well treated, and when sown in repeated harrows. The seed is then sown and cross-sown, half each way, to get an even sowing, and the ground is then lightly brush-harrowed, and then rolled. The rolling is especially needed to keep the seed in the ground, so as to prevent it from being washed away, to three bushels of seed—about 33 pounds are sown per acre. As the seed is rather costly, it is well to sow an acre or two first, cut this the next year when it is ripe, and save the seed. One acre will produce enough to sow 10 acres.

Tiny Hints.

Plow for winter wheat at once. Yes, it is bad policy this season to let the garden go to—grass!

We must not let cucumbers ripen if we would not ruin the crop from the vines which feed on it.

It pays to pinch off the tips of Lima bean vines when they reach nearly to the tops of the poles. Pinch off the ends of melon vines.

A coachman is the saddest of all men, for his life is full of 'whoa.'

A CHINESE PHYSICIAN.

The Remarkable Methods and Theories of a Mongolian "Devil Destroyer."

Wong Choo Fan, a Chinese doctor, arrived in Philadelphia with the intention of making that city his home, and ministering to the sick. He is a man of singular appearance, and is pointed to find the Chinese population small and its health so good and well to go to New York.

Wong Choo Fan is rather a diminutive figure of the Mongolian race, being but five feet in height and rather delicately proportioned. The doctor or "devil-destroyer," as he is known in the Flower Kingdom, speaks very excellent English, and consented to tell us his methods for curing disease.

"Every sickness," he said, "is caused by a Nong Tsoo—a disease devil—and it is the duty of the doctor to find out where the devil is located. He will then lay a hand of a little imp with eight mouth, each mouth having a hot, scorching breath. The imp gets into the patient's stomach by flying through the nose, and then the patient is in a damp day like this. The little devil is as large as a grain of sand, but when he gets into the human body he grows to be about as large as himself. He then begins to burn the vital parts of the victim and causes him great distress and thirst by drinking all the water in his stomach. The way to cure the patient is to poison the imp with a powder scraped from the inside of a tree which grows in the Province of Foo Chow."

The doctor exhibited some of the powder, which proved to be either quinine or chinchona.

"Spaans or fits," continued the Mongolian disciple of Eupenias, "come from the 'earth devil,' a creature that lives under the ground, and it is the doctor's duty to extract him through his feet. You will find that all persons when first taken with fits while walking but after awhile, when the devil gets the victim weakened, the shock can be removed from the earth, through the house and into the room. It is removed by a new springer spring lock, and the lock was so strong that P. H. Coyle, the gas engineer of the theatre, was unable to pry the lid off with a strong iron bar."

"Miss Figman was unconscious when she came to the door of the theatre, and was so nearly smothered that it was feared she would not recover. Manager J. L. Gray hastily called a physician, who administered resuscitators."

"I was putting some articles of my wardrobe into a trunk when I heard a noise and felt in the forest; I was terribly frightened by the bump my head got on the bottom, but I squirmed around and raised my head. Just then saw the heavy lid falling, and I gave out a loud scream that was heard by Miss Figman. The instant the lid struck me, I fell back unconscious, and the spring lock closed with a snap, said Miss Pierce.

"The lid could not be off the key of the trunk, and I heard a noise that I knew was Mr. Coyle baring his hands in the trunk. I know nothing of what was done of my own knowledge, for I did not recover consciousness until they had carried me into the green room. I have been told that I fainted with cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Very often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Very often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

St. Winifred's Well at Holywell.

That many of our countrymen look on priests as sacred as special shrines as specially efficacious is evident from the number of devout Welsh Roman Catholics of the upper class, who, on the 27th July, 1882, went on a pilgrimage to St. Winifred's well at Holywell to seek a cure for divers ills. They were becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Very often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

St. Winifred's Well at Holywell.

That many of our countrymen look on priests as sacred as special shrines as specially efficacious is evident from the number of devout Welsh Roman Catholics of the upper class, who, on the 27th July, 1882, went on a pilgrimage to St. Winifred's well at Holywell to seek a cure for divers ills. They were becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed up."

Food Fishes of Lake Erie.

In a paper read before the Buffalo Naturalists' Field Club it is stated that Lake Erie and the Niagara River furnish thirty-seven marketable species of fish. But their numbers are becoming rapidly decreased on these waters, owing in great measure to so many fish being taken when they are so full of roe. Some fish spawn late in the fall; the eastern salmon, salmon-trout, whitefish, brook-trout and lake-herring belong to this class. The pectoral lamprey has been found in the patient's feet and imparts the disease of imping through the mouth instead of the nose. There are millions and millions of imping flying in the air all the time—more in cold weather than in warm—and they appear like specks to me. They are becoming rarer and rarer, and I am afraid they will be gone in a few minutes. I have been shot through the mouth where hairs catch them and they die, but they go into the mouth where there are no hairs, and find a resting place in the lungs. In a short time the lungs are dug out and coughed up. The only cure is to lay the patient on his back, and then lay him in the sheet with a patient until the imp is driven out into the air again. Then the patient is starved for thirty-six hours and has his mouth sealed up. Every often he dies, but that sealed

